

Penitentiary Said In Need Of Funding And Reform Transfusion

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of four articles by a Star staff writer who accompanied State Sen. Ernest Chambers on a recent visit to the State Penitentiary.)

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

After nearly a dozen visits to the Nebraska Penitentiary, State Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha says he is convinced that the institution is what he considers to be the Penitentiary's lack of emphasis on rehabilitation.

nounced — to visit individually with a number of inmates.

Going To Continue

"And I'm going to continue to make periodic trips as long as I'm a senator," he said.

What disturbs him the most, Chambers said, is what he considers to be the Penitentiary's lack of emphasis on rehabilitation.

"Prisons shouldn't be considered garbage heaps for the dumping of human refuse," he declared.

"We are destroying people, and I think we destroy part of ourselves when we destroy them."

As a member of the Legislative Council's law enforcement study committee, Chambers wants public hearings arranged at the prison during which inmates can present their views directly to legislators.

To Join Tour

Chambers will travel with other committee members to Fox Lake, Wis., on July 26 to tour a relatively new "medium security" prison which he hopes might serve as a model for a new Nebraska Penitentiary.

Then, when the Legislature reconvenes next January, Chambers expects to ask his colleagues to appropriate planning funds for the construction of a new penal facility.

"I think that a vocational technical training school should definitely be a part of it," he said. Such a facility might, in fact, demand "top priority," he said.

"The emphasis should be on rehabilitation."

Eyes Other Visits

Chambers also hopes to arrange visits to two other state prisons — the Missouri Training Center for Men at Moberly and the Washington Corrections Center at Shelton — and a trip to one or two new federal prisons.

"I want to go before the Legislature with enough substance to justify my request," he said.

"Prison reform is a long neglected area on the blind side of society's eye," Chambers said.

"I think the standard which measures society's level of civilization is the way it treats its prisoners."

Better Services' Needed

While Chambers emphasizes the need for better physical facilities, he also believes Nebraska's Penitentiary needs "better medical and psychiatric services," an improved salary scale for guards, more recreational opportunities and "an entire new system of rules dealing with solitary confinement."

Chambers has been sharply critical of the administration of Warden Maurice Sigler, who will leave the institution to accept a presidential appointment to the Federal Board of Parole effective Aug. 1.

Sigler will leave a Penitentiary which has institutionalized racial discrimination, Chambers said.

"I do believe that once he's gone, it is going to be easier to solve these problems than had he remained," Chambers insisted.

Plant Won't Help

But, he said, a new physical plant would be "of no value at all" if Sigler is replaced by an incapable successor.

"We don't want a third rate Penitentiary administration running a new first rate facility," he said.

(In articles which follow, six inmates who met with Chambers last week will air some of their grievances. The warden will respond and outline his own views of needed change.)

The public, Chambers said, tends to stereotype all inmates.

"It is true that inside the prison walls and in the trustee dorm are men who have been convicted of murder, rape, aggravated assault, armed robbery and other crimes of violence," he said.

"But to stereotype every man in the Penitentiary as vicious, unconscionable or immoral is a gross mistake of judgment."

"There are men in prison for having written a bad check. Some may be there because they are simply ignorant of their rights to protect themselves."

Some Falsely Accused

"Some who are there may have been falsely accused, convicted and sentenced."

And among them, Chambers said, are "men capable of helping other men."

Their lives in the prison are governed by the warden, his deputies and his guards, Chambers said.

"I ask who will watch the watchers," he said. "And my partial reply is me."

THREE DIE IN ONE CRASH . . .

Traffic Mishaps Claim 5 Lives

From Press Reports

Traffic accidents claimed the lives of five Nebraskans during the first two days of the extended 4th of July holiday weekend.

Three persons were killed and nine injured in a head-on crash near Inland, a one car crash near Nebraska City claimed one life Saturday night and a DeWitt woman was killed Sunday in a motorcycle accident.

Killed in the cycle crash was a 19-year-old woman who was riding with her husband when their motorcycle went out of control on Highway 41 three miles west of Wilber.

Her identity was being withheld by officials. Her husband was hospitalized in Omaha in serious condition. The woman died enroute to a Omaha hospital, according to the Saline County Sheriff's office.

Killed in the one-car crash was Raymond Henderson, 21, of rural Union. The accident occurred two miles northeast of Nebraska City on a county road when Henderson's car hit a bridge abutment.

Authorities say Robert Morton of Union, a passenger, was hospitalized in Nebraska City. Another passenger, Lee Ann Lusk of rural Nebraska City escaped serious injury.

The State Patrol identified those killed at Inland as Dennis J. Hoeft, 20, of York, Frank Morgan, 42, of Sutton and Danielle Vibins eight months, of Sutton.

The deaths brought Nebraska's Fourth of July holiday toll to 5. They raised the state's toll for 1971 to 194, compared with 190 at this time last year.

riding in the car driven by Morgan. Hoeft was alone in his auto, en route to his job at Hastings, State Trooper John Dirks said.

Dirks said Hoeft's westbound car was in head-on collision with one going east, driven by Morgan about 2½ miles east of Inland on U.S. 6.

Hoeft and Morgan were killed outright. The little Vibins girl died in a Hastings hospital Sunday.

Officers said another westbound car driven by Joy R. Cook, 19, of Oklahoma City then was in collision with the Hoeft auto. Dirks said Mrs. Cook, accompanied by her husband, was blinded by headlights of an auto that had stopped at the scene. Mr. and Mrs. Cook escaped injury.

Dirks said Morgan and his eight original passengers had stopped at the Hastings airport to pick up Mrs. Nancy Bivins, 19, and her daughter Danielle. They had been visiting Mrs. Bivins' husband, who is stationed with the Army at El Paso, Tex.

Those injured in the Morgan car were identified as David Perkins 2; Frieda Perkins, 46; Mrs. Bivins; Richard Warre, 5; Mrs. Lavonne Morgan, 34-year-old wife of one of the victims: Mrs. Arilla Feldt, 24, and her three children, Scott, 1; Charles, 5, and Debbie 3, all of Sutton.

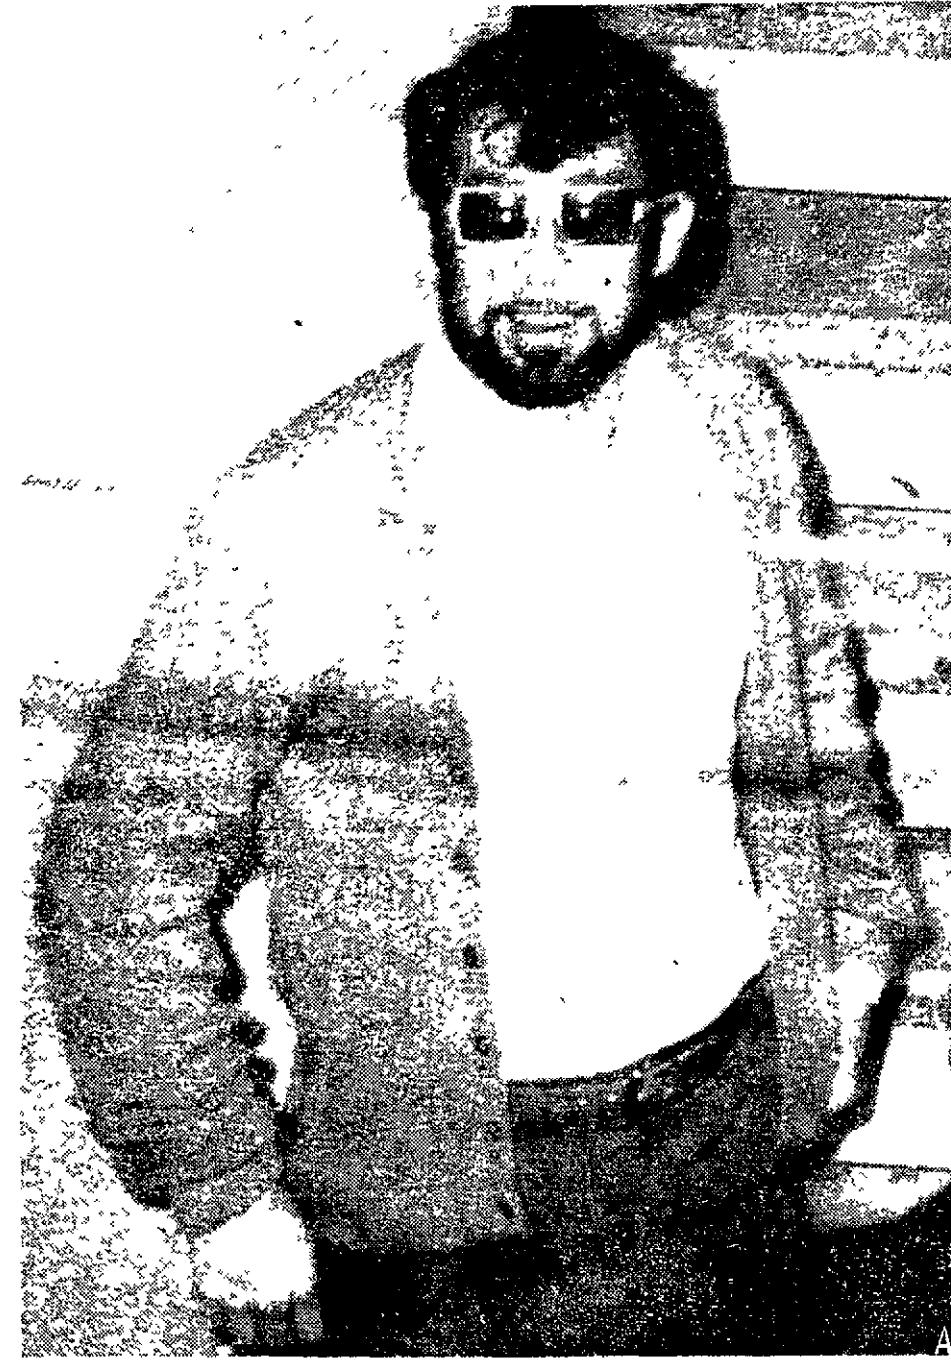

The deaths brought Nebraska's Fourth of July holiday toll to 5. They raised the state's toll for 1971 to 194, compared with 190 at this time last year.

All of the injured, hospitalized in Hastings reported in satisfactory condition, were

HIJACKER GIVES UP PLANE

Surrender Takes Place After Almost Two Days

... IN BUENOS AIRES, ARGENTINA

HIJACKER ESCORTED . . . to Buenos Aires police station.

Buenos Aires (UPI) — Grounded by Argentina's refusal to cooperate with an airplane hijacker, Robert Lee Jackson walked off the Braniff jetliner he held for nearly two days and surrendered quietly Sunday to police — his fingers raised in a V sign.

His female companion had given herself up several hours earlier.

Jackson's 43-hour hop, skip and jump escapade from Texas to this Argentine capital ended in his failure to obtain the political asylum he wanted in Algeria.

Refueling Refused

Jackson, 36, a U.S. Navy deserter, had wanted to fly to that North African country with $100,000 in ransom money he had received for the release of a passenger he held hostage in Monterrey, Mexico, on Saturday. But the Argentine government refused to let the Braniff International 707 jet take on the necessary fuel.

In San Antonio, Tex., the aircraft's destination before it was hijacked on Friday, the FBI said Jackson had been charged with air piracy and assault with a deadly weapon.

John Wachter, legal counsel of the U.S. Embassy in Buenos Aires, had said the United States would seek Jackson's extradition.

But Argentine officials said this would not be possible because of the seriousness of Argentina's charges against him: kidnapping and theft of an aircraft.

Informal Deportation

Wachter then said the United States would seek Jackson's "informal deportation."

Police had quoted Jackson as saying before his surrender that he wanted to remain in Argentina.

In Washington, a Pentagon spokesman said Jackson, whose last civilian address was Maryville, Tenn., was classified as a deserter from the Navy shortly after he escaped from confinement on May 18.

Originally AWOL

The spokesman said the original charge against Jackson, a boatswain's mate first class, was being absent without leave.

During the hijack escapade, Jackson said he had been charged in the United States with a crime he did not commit. He did not elaborate.

His former wife, Mrs. Fred Mayer of Albany, Ga., said he had been held in the Navy brig at Charleston, S.C.

In 1969, she said, he had been picked by the FBI at the Canadian border at Alexandria Bay, N.Y., on a charge of kidnapping of his 12-year-old stepson — Mrs. Mayer's son by a marriage previous to that to Jackson. The boy and Jackson were returned to Florida, where the mother had brought the kidnapping charge, but the charge later was dropped.

Wanted To Leave U.S.

Mrs. Mayer, who divorced Jackson in 1968, said he had often voiced a hatred of the United States during their marriage and had expressed a desire to leave. She added that he had joined the Navy at the age of 17 after quitting high school in his second year.

He earned four good conduct medals and served in Vietnam, she said.

But she added that Jackson often had periods of depression and wanted to go to Australia or Sweden.

Police records in Maryville, Tenn., showed that Jackson had been picked up there by the FBI last August for being AWOL.

Kissinger, Thieu Discuss Hanoi's Peace Bid

Saigon (UPI) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and President Nguyen Van Thieu napped out an allied reply to the new Communist peace proposal Sunday and explored options of speeding U.S. troop withdrawals from Vietnam, informed sources reported.

The 2½-hour strategy meeting at the Independence Palace was one of the most significant of the Indochina war, the informants said. Although details of the session were kept secret, aides to Kissinger described the conference as "fruitful."

The importance of the meeting was underscored by its length. The sources said he could not recall Thieu spending as much time with any other visiting dignitary.

Three Subjects

The government-operated national television network, in a newscast Sunday night, said Thieu and Kissinger discussed three main subjects: the peace negotiations, the war situation in Vietnam and South Vietnam's national economy. It gave no details.

The war faded for the time being, with only a series of patrol skirmishes reported, none of them significant.

Just the same, U.S. B-52 bombers kept the pressure on North Vietnamese forces massed in the northern quarter of South Vietnam below the demilitarized zone and along the Laotian border.

Up to a score of the giant Stratofortresses dropped 600 tons of bombs on suspected North Vietnamese troops' concentrations, bunkers, ammunition and food storage depots, and rocket, mortar and antiaircraft sites. Some of the raids were within a mile and a half of the DMZ.

In Phnom Penh, the Cambodian high command reported that Cambodian forces sweeping vast marshlands northeast of the capital killed 38 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in the first significant clash there in two weeks.

Command spokesman Am Rong said one government soldier was killed and two wounded in the encounter across the Mekong River from the capital, where heavy fighting raged for three weeks in June.

The situation is generally calm elsewhere in the country, Am Rong added.

After his meeting with Thieu, Kissinger lunched with Deputy U.S. Ambassador Samuel Berger and Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam. During the afternoon, he conferred with George D. Jacobson, the acting chief of the U.S. pacification program in Vietnam, and Emory C. Swank, the U.S. ambassador to Cambodia.

Later, Kissinger went to a Fourth of July reception at Bunker's residence.

The national security advisor to Nixon will meet Monday with Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky and Duong Van "Big" Minh, both of whom are contesting Thieu's bid for re-election in the Oct. 3 presidential election.

Penitentiary Said In Need Of Funding

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of four articles by a Star staff writer who accompanied State Sen. Ernest Chambers on a recent visit to the State Penitentiary.)

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

After nearly a dozen visits to the Nebraska Penitentiary, State Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha says he is convinced that the institution needs a transfusion of both funding and reform.

"I believe that most penitentiaries across the nation — and that includes this one — destroy human beings and produce monsters in their place," Chambers declared.

"Unless people on the outside take an interest in what happens inside prior to the time that one of their relatives or friends may wind up there, prisons will continue to be strongholds of sexual perversion and general corruption of the minds and morals of inmates."

Chambers first visited the Penitentiary on Jan. 27 shortly after he assumed office as a freshman senator.

Since that time, he has made "about a dozen" trips to the institution — always unannounced — to visit individually with a number of inmates.

EAST AND CENTRAL NEBR

New York Times
News Summary

(c) New York Times News Service

New York — The New York Times' series of articles on the secret Pentagon study of Vietnam policy ended with an account describing the study's conclusion that the United States played "a direct role in the ultimate breakdown of the Geneva settlement" of 1954. The study's conclusion, based on National Security Council and White House actions, contradicts the later assertions of several administrations that North Vietnam alone was to blame for the breakdown. (More on Page 5.)

Nixon Announcement Expected

New York — Sen. Jacob K. Javits said in a television interview show that he expects President Nixon to announce No. 1 the completion of Vietnamization and a total American withdrawal from Vietnam "just as rapidly as our troops and materiel can be redeployed." That would mean disengagement from Vietnam in mid-1972, the senator added.

U.S. Shares Blame In Wrecking Geneva Pact

Soviet Mission Said Success

Moscow — Despite their deaths as they returned to earth, the work of the three Salyut orbiting space laboratory was a definite success, a Soviet space scientist said in an article in Pravda. He added that more orbiting stations will be developed. (More on Page 16.)

Kissinger, Thieu Confer

Saigon — Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser, conferred in Saigon with President Nguyen Van Thieu. No details of the talks were provided, but American and South Vietnamese officials discounted rumors that "something big" is afoot. They suggested that Kissinger discussed an even faster American withdrawal rate next year and pledged continued economic and military aid. (More on Page 15.)

Hijacker Surrenders

from Tennessee who had, with a woman companion, hijacked a Braniff jetliner from Mexico to Argentina, surrendered quietly after Argentina refused to allow the plane to refuel for a flight to Algeria. The woman, a Guatemalan-born resident of Mexico, had surrendered earlier. Most of the $100,000 ransom the pair collected in Mexico was recovered. (More on Page 1.)

Suez Reopening Terms Set

Moscow — Only if Israel agrees to withdraw from all occupied Arab territory should the Suez Canal be reopened, the Soviet Union and the United Arab Republic affirmed in a joint communique issued in Moscow. The statement provides little optimism for the American officials still hoping for an interim Middle East solution. (More on Page 15.)

Flag Center Of Controversy

Salt Lake City — The nation's flag, universally revered in past Fourth of July, was found to have become a center of controversy in most states. Flag desecration laws were said to be unevenly applied: commercial use of the flag is tolerated, while those who use the flag as a mocking reminder of the failures of American government are arrested.

Southern Demos Like Muskie

Washington — A visit to seven Southern states showed that a large majority of Democratic politicians in the South would vote for Sen. Edmund S. Muskie for president if the party's nominating convention were held now.

Newport Festival Canceled

Newport, R.I. — City officials in Newport canceled the last two days of the Newport Jazz Festival following an invasion of the festival Saturday night by thousands of young people led by Colombo.

who had refused to pay for tickets. The invasion caused property damage estimated at between $20,000 and $30,000. (More on Page 15.)

Welfare Births Declining

New York — Human Resources Administrator Julie M. Sugarman reported that the rate of births among welfare recipients in the city had dropped in the last three years from 20% to 11%. He attributed the dramatic decline to the impact of family planning services.

$100,000 Said Demanded

New York — Sources close to the police investigation into the shooting of Joseph A. Colombo Sr. said that Joseph Gallo, leader of a faction in the Mafia, had unsuccessfully demanded $100,000 last April to keep him from renewing a feud with the Mafia family allegedly led by Colombo.

Ecologists, Gardeners Seek Nonchemical Insect Killers

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

How to get rid of bugs without chemicals is bugging a lot of self-appointed ecologists and organic gardeners these days.

Bob Roselle, extension entomologist and one of the stars of Educational Television's (ETV) Backyard Farmer, is in the center of the problem.

Some of the products of 40 years ago were of greater danger to the person applying the bug killer than to the bugs themselves and many were harmful to plants.

The label of an old insect killer called London Purple read, "The seller makes no warranty, expressed or implied concerning the use of this product. The buyer assumes all risk of use or handling whether in accordance with directions or not."

This insecticide's label included a recipe for a vicious concoction to be used in case anyone swallowed the bug killer.

Another old-time bug product is Black Leaf 40. This product is a danger even though it is derived from tobacco and fits the description of an organic or plant-derived product that is sought by organic gardeners.

Classed As Organic

"Actually most of the insecticides we use today could be classed as organic. They are largely made of chlorine, carbon and oxygen," Roselle said.

A modern product, toxophene, is made by extracting camphene from pine stumps which grow in the southern states. Then the camphene is mixed with chlorine. Many other modern insect killers are made from plant materials.

Roselle has two devices that get rid of bugs mechanically. One is a pair of wooden blocks. The insect is placed on one block and the bug is hit with the other block.

Triggering Device

The second device is a Rube Goldberg wonder that has a mallet, a triggering device on a wood block and a strong rubber band. The mallet is supposed to strike the bug when the trigger is pulled.

"Years ago there was a horse-drawn bug catcher affair used on many farms and you also used to see farmers pulling a log through a ditch in an effort to trap and destroy insects, particularly army worms," he said.

"Home gardeners must use a light to attract insects away from the garden or use boards for them to hide under and dispatch them after turning the board over, but it just takes too many boards for a wheat field," he pointed out.

Great Bait

"Back around 1880, somebody hatched a really great bait made of horse manure, lemon juice, salt and paris green (an early poison) as a bait for insects that worked pretty well," he suggested.

"Don't forget screens on doors and windows as barriers for insects from our homes," he added.

Nonchemical methods of insect control available to farmers include late planting of wheat to avoid Hessian fly damage and crop rotation to remove the threat of rootworm damage to corn.

Chemicals are still necessary for crop protection from insects, but the home gardener can attempt to control insects without chemicals in a number of ways if he is willing to work harder at preserving the ecology," Roselle said.

NONCHEMICAL . . . bug killing is demonstrated.

18-Vote Ceremony To Feature Jefferson Desk

Thurmont, Md. (AP) — President Nixon, who spent the Fourth of July working on the national budget, will witness Monday ceremonies marking extension of the vote to 18-year-olds, standing beside a desk Thomas Jefferson may have used while drafting the Declaration of Independence.

The Jefferson desk is being brought over from the State Department for the use of the administrator of the General Services Administration, Robert Kunzig, in officially certifying that the 26th Amendment to the Constitution has been ratified.

Ohio came through last Wednesday with the required approval of a 38th state.

The President and Mrs. Nixon plan to return from Camp David to the White House around mid-day Monday.

The agriculture public relations seminar held in Lincoln early last week provided some interesting insights into the thinking of the professional agriculture communicators.

The agriculture communicators meeting at this seminar included radio, television, newspaper, farm magazine and public relations men.

Glenn Kreuscher, now state director of agriculture who spent a quarter century writing about white face cows and farmers, said, "A few short years ago we had trouble getting 20 people to this meeting, now we have more than 100. This doesn't indicate that agriculture is a dying industry."

It seems certain that there is a growing need for people with farm backgrounds and the gifts of gab, writing or whatever ingenuity are needed to become spokesmen for agriculture.

There have been times in the last dozen years when I have felt pretty lonely talking and writing about agriculture, and the lone feeling still happens.

"Get me a picture of a typical farmer," says a city editor. What he has in mind is a man dressed in bib overalls, wearing a straw hat and chewing on a piece of broom straw as he leans in the door of a ramshackle barn.

A photographer searched the statehouse for farmers during the debates on property tax. He simply didn't recognize that the well-dressed gentlemen carrying briefcases were farmers.

Evidently, the photographer spends too much time watching Petticoat Junction or Green Acres on television.

One reason why many observers on the food scene believe advertising could help the consumption of farm products, particularly animal products such as meat, milk, eggs, and ice cream, is that the food dollar's share of the total national income still is dropping.

The newsletter published by the National Association of Retail Grocers sets the food share of total income at 18.4%, down from 18.7% last year.

"A single phonograph record or a magazine, which can't be considered food items or even necessities, will compete for the customer's food dollar and probably will be considered by her as part of her food bill," said David Stroud of the National Livestock and Meat Board in Chicago.

Egg prices are down 24% partly due to a vaccine that greatly increased production. Pork prices are down 13% and poultry down 4% while all processed foods are up except orange juice.

It's just possible that a creative advertising program could convince Mrs. Housewife that her money might be better spent on meat than on a magazine.

One reason soybean prices have been high is the large exports of soy oil due to the lack of Russian sunflower oil in world trade. The Soviet acreage has been constant, but the production has dropped. They plan to reverse the trend by some kind of Communist incentive called price incentive.

Give the kind of incentive to American farmers, and we would bury them in the stuff. U.S. Said 'Slave State.'

Heidelberg, Germany (AP) — Kathleen Cleaver, wife of Black Panther information minister Eldridge Cleaver, defied an order barring her from West Germany and told a group of 200 black U.S. soldiers and German students that America was a "slave state."

National Grain and Feed Association (NGFA) spokesman, testifying on the freight car shortage, suggested that adding several thousand freight cars to the rail car fleet might make things worse.

Greater efficiency with the cars already on the track is the goal of the NGFA.

Actually the railroads have been making some progress in improving rail freight shipments, according to a report from a study made by the University of Nebraska. The improvement is small, but it does indicate that the rail people are trying.

Womanpower may be playing a greater role in agriculture. The gals have for years driven tractors and generally run the place when the old man is gone.

Now they are making trips to Washington lobbying for their favorite organization.

The National Association of Conservation Districts has a women's district officials and a ladies auxiliary which are promoting soil stewardship week in the schools.

Victor Ray, of the Farmers Union office in Washington, said the women lobbyists have proven more effective than the men lobbyists in Washington.

New York Times
News Summary

(c) New York Times News Service

New York — The New York Times' series of articles on the secret Pentagon study of Vietnam policy ended with an account describing the study's conclusion that the United States played a "direct role in the ultimate breakdown of the Geneva settlement" of 1954. The study's conclusion, based on National Security Council and White House actions, contradicts the later assertions of several administrations that North Vietnam alone was to blame for the breakdown. (More on Page 5.)

Nixon Announcement Expected

New York — Sen. Jacob K. Javits said in a television interview show that he expects President Nixon to announce No. 1 the completion of Vietnamization and a total American withdrawal from Vietnam "just as rapidly as our troops and materiel can be redeployed." That would mean disengagement from Vietnam in mid-1972, the senator added.

Ecologists, Gardeners Seek Nonchemical Insect Killers

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

How to get rid of bugs without chemicals is bugging a lot of self-appointed ecologists and organic gardeners these days.

Bob Roselle, extension entomologist and one of the stars of Educational Television's (ETV) Backyard Farmer, is in the center of the problem.

Some of the products of 40 years ago were of greater danger to the person applying the bug killer than to the bugs themselves and many were harmful to plants.

The label of an old insect killer called London Purple read, "The seller makes no warranty, expressed or implied concerning the use of this product. The buyer assumes all risk of use or handling whether in accordance with directions or not."

This insecticide's label included a recipe for a vicious concoction to be used in case anyone swallowed the bug killer.

Another old-time bug product is Black Leaf 40. This product is a danger even though it is derived from tobacco and fits the description of an organic or plant-derived product that is sought by organic gardeners.

Classed As Organic

"Actually most of the insecticides we use today could be classed as organic. They are

Soviet Mission Said Success

Moscow — Despite their deaths as they returned to earth, the work of the three Salyut orbiting space laboratory was a definite success, a Soviet space scientist said in an article in Pravda. He added that more orbiting stations will be developed. (More on Page 16.)

Kissinger, Thieu Confer

Saigon — Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser, conferred in Saigon with President Nguyen Van Thieu. No details of the talks were provided, but American and South Vietnamese officials discounted rumors that "something big" is afoot. They suggested that Kissinger discussed an even faster American withdrawal rate next year and pledged continued economic and military aid. (More on Page 15.)

Hijacker Surrenders

from Tennessee who had, with a woman companion, hijacked a Braniff jetliner from Mexico to Argentina, surrendered quietly after Argentina refused to allow the plane to refuel for a flight to Algeria. The woman, a Guatemalan resident of Mexico, had surrendered earlier. Most of the $100,000 ransom the pair collected in Mexico was recovered. (More on Page 1.)

Suez Reopening Terms Set

Moscow — Only if Israel agrees to withdraw from all occupied Arab territory should the Suez Canal be reopened, the Soviet Union and the United Arab Republic affirmed in a joint communiqué issued in Moscow. The statement provides little optimism for the American officials still hoping for an interim Middle East solution. (More on Page 15.)

Flag Center Of Controversy

Salt Lake City — The nation's flag, universally revered in past Fourths of July, was found to have become a center of controversy in most states. Flag desecration laws were said to be unevenly applied: commercial use of the flag is tolerated, while those who use the flag as a mocking reminder of the failures of American government are arrested.

Southern Demos Like Muskie

Washington — A visit to seven Southern states showed that a large majority of Democratic politicians in the South would vote for Sen. Edmund S. Muskie for president if the party's nominating convention were held now.

Newport Festival Canceled

Newport, R.I. — City officials in Newport canceled the last two days of the Newport Jazz Festival following an invasion of the festival Saturday night by thousands of young people who had refused to pay for tickets. The invasion caused property damage estimated at between $20,000 and $30,000. (More on Page 15.)

Welfare Births Declining

New York — Human Resources Administrator Jule M. Sugarman reported that the rate of births among welfare recipients in the city had dropped in the last three years from 20% to 11%. He attributed the dramatic decline to the impact of family planning services.

$100,000 Said Demanded

New York — Sources close to the police investigation into the shooting of Joseph A. Colombo, Sr. said that Joseph Gallo, leader of a faction in the Mafia, had unsuccessfully demanded $100,000 last April to keep him from renewing a feud with the Mafia family allegedly led by Colombo.

largely made of chlorine, carbon and oxygen," Roselle said.

A modern product, toxophene, is made by extracting camphene from pine stumps which grow in the southern states. Then the camphene is mixed with chlorine. Many other modern insect killers are made from plant materials.

Roselle has two devices that get rid of bugs mechanically. One is a pair of wooden blocks. The insect is placed on one block and the bug is hit with the other block.

Triggering Device

The second device is a Rube Goldberg wonder that has a mallet, a triggering device on a wood block and a strong rubber band. The mallet is supposed to strike the bug when the trigger is pulled.

"Years ago there was a horse-drawn bug catcher affair used on many farms and you also used to see farmers pulling a log through a ditch in an effort to trap and destroy insects, particularly army worms," he said.

"Home gardeners must use a light to attract insects away from the garden or use boards for them to hide under and dispatch them after turning the board over, but it just takes too many boards for a wheat field," he pointed out.

"Great Bait" "Back around 1880, somebody hatched a really great bait made of horse manure, lemon juice, salt and paris green (an early poison) as a bait for insects that worked pretty well," he suggested.

"Don't forget screens on doors and windows as barriers for insects from our homes," he added.

Nonchemical methods of insect control available to farmers include late planting of wheat to avoid Hessian fly damage and crop rotation to remove the threat of rootworm damage to corn.

"Chemicals are still necessary for crop protection from insects, but the home gardener can attempt to control insects without chemicals in a number of ways if he is willing to work harder at preserving the ecology," Roselle said.

NONCHEMICAL . . . bug killing is demonstrated.

18-Vote Ceremony To Feature Jefferson Desk

Thurmont, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon, who spent the Fourth of July working on the national budget, will witness Monday ceremonies marking extension of the vote to 18-year-olds, standing beside a desk Thomas Jefferson may have used while drafting the Declaration of Independence.

The Jefferson desk is being brought over from the State Department for the use of the administrator of the General Services Administration, Robert Kunzig, in officially certifying that the 26th Amendment to the Constitution has been ratified.

Reservoirs Reach Record June Level

Omaha — The Missouri River reservoirs record June storage levels according to Maj. Gen. J. W. Morris, Missouri River Division engineer for the Corps of Engineers. The system of six main stem reservoirs held 68,597,000 acre-feet of water at the end of June. This is 1,314,000 acre-feet more than the record June level reached two years ago.

In early June, when high flows were occurring on the lower Missouri River, the storage of water by the reservoirs reduced lower river stages by four to five feet. Continued melting of the near-record mountain snowpack is expected to raise the system storage to all-time record levels by late July.

Navigation tonnage is continuing to run about 25% ahead of last year.

Gavins Points releases are expected to increase to the 50,000 to 55,000 cubic feet per second (cfs) range in late July. The water surface of the Lewis and Clark lake will be held near elevation 1206 to 1207 feet above sea level except as necessary to impound flood runoff.

Fort Randall releases will be continued near full power plant capacity of about 45,000 cubic feet per second until late in the month when additional flood control outlet releases will be made in connection with the evacuation of flood storage in the system. The lake behind the dam, Lake Francis Case, is expected to lower one or two feet by the end of July.

Oahe and Big Bend releases will average from 40-thousand to 50-thousand cfs with day-to-day variations as necessary to serve power loads. The Oahe lake is expected to lower about one foot unless substantial rainfall runoff occurs. Lake Sharpe (behind Big Bend Dam) will be held near elevation 1420 through the month of July.

Garrison releases will be maintained near full power plant capacity of 34,000 to 38,000 cubic feet per second during July. The level of Lake Sakakawea is expected to rise to about elevation 1850 in July from mountain snowmelt runoff.

Fort Peck releases will continue at about 10,000 cfs. The Fort Peck lake level will rise to near elevation 2245 as a result of mountain snowmelt runoff.

Loren Burson, 21, Drowning Victim

Ord, Ia. — A young Ord man drowned Sunday afternoon near the Harden Brook Inversion Dam.

He was Loren Burson, 21. Valley County Sheriff Clarence Fox said Burson was swimming in water below the dam when he apparently stepped into a hole and was taken under. The body was recovered downstream.

Youth Trips Financed

Jerusalem, Ia. — Israel and West Germany have renewed an agreement expected to help pay for trips by about 2,000 youths from each country to the other.

Evacuation of the record amount of storage accumulated in the reservoir system will require a substantial increase in system releases later this month to levels comparable to those which prevailed in the summer and fall of 1969, Morris said.

Power production established a new monthly energy record in June, with 1,373,000,000 kilowatt hours, exceeding the August 1969 record by 3,000,000 kwh.

Navigation tonnage is continuing to run about 25% ahead of last year.

Jump From Bus Injures Youth

Denver, Colo. — Richard Kocher, 16, of Lincoln, Neb., was listed in fair condition but remained in the intensive care section of Colorado General Hospital Sunday.

Kocher was critically injured when he jumped out of the emergency door of a church bus on Interstate 80 near Fort Morgan, Colo.

Morgan County sheriff's deputies said Kocher jumped from the moving bus as a fight developed.

Youth Drowns At Merritt Beach

Plattsburgh, N.Y. — A youth from Council Bluffs, Iowa, drowned while swimming at Merritt Beach Sunday.

Cass County authorities identified him as Edward Lockman, 17. They said he was swimming toward shore with a companion when he got into trouble.

The companion, Mike Hicks, 17, also of Council Bluffs, told authorities he was able to get Lockman back to the surface but that he went down again in deep water.

Omaha — Many Nebraskans are not having enough Federal income tax withheld from their paychecks, and may wind up owing the government a large amount when they file their 1971 returns, Richard P. Vinal, District Director of Internal Revenue for Nebraska, said.

The solution? Arrange for additional withholding with your employer, who has been furnished information necessary for that purpose.

The standard deduction, formerly 10% has been increased to 13%. The withholding system allows a 13% deduction for all wage earners who are not entitled to the low income allowance.

However, the standard deduction is limited to $1,500.00 on the tax rate. For example, the withholding tables assume that a single taxpayer with a $15,000.00 income will have 13% or $1,850.00 in deductions. But when the taxpayer fills out his return and takes the $1,500.00 standard deduction, or $450.00 less than the deductions allowed for withholding, he will generally wind up owing tax. The same taxpayer will have a similar problem if his itemized deductions were less than 13% of his income.

Another withholding problem arises when both husband and wife are employed. Although the withholding system gives each employee the new low income allowance, the couple is entitled to only one low income allowance when filing the joint return.

Approximately 220 persons attended outdoor church services in the morning at which the Rev. Jim Tomlinson spoke. A combined choir of some 40 voices was directed by Frank Mills.

In addition, employees with high income may have too little withheld because the maximum withholding rates are limited to 24% for single persons and 25% for married persons.

Taxpayers most likely to need more withholding are:

—Employees who expect to earn more than $11,500 in 1971

Reservoirs Reach Record June Level

Omaha — The Missouri River reservoirs record June storage levels according to Maj. Gen. J. W. Morris, Missouri River Division engineer for the Corps of Engineers. The system of six main stem reservoirs held 68,597,000 acre-feet of water at the end of June. This is 1,314,000 acre-feet more than the record June level reached two years ago.

In early June, when high flows were occurring on the lower Missouri River, the storage of water by the reservoirs reduced lower river stages by four to five feet. Continued melting of the near-record mountain snowpack is expected to raise the system storage to all-time record levels by late July.

2 Men Shot In Argument At 22nd, Vine

Two men were shot Sunday night at 22nd and Vine following an argument about money one of them owed the other, police reported.

Hospitalized at Lincoln early Monday morning were Robert Banks, 20, of the Crescent Apartments at 2222 Vine, and Gary Dandridge, 22, of Omaha.

Dandridge, who police said was shot at least twice in the head, was listed in "satisfactory" condition and was being held for observation. Banks, who was shot in the abdomen, was still in surgery.

Banks was found collapsed in the west driveway to the Cres Apartments almost a block from the shooting and was rushed to the hospital by ambulance, while Dandridge came to the hospital on his own.

A 32-caliber automatic and three empty cartridges were found at the scene of the shooting, police said.

Loren Burson, 21, Drowning Victim

Ord — A young Ord man drowned Sunday afternoon near the Harden Brook Inversion Dam.

He was Loren Burson, 21. Valley County Sheriff Clarence Fox said Burson was swimming in water below the dam when he apparently stepped into a hole and was taken under. The body was recovered downstream.

Youth Trips Financed

Jerusalem — Israel and West Germany have renewed an agreement expected to help pay for trips by about 2,000 youths from each country to the other.

Evacuation of the record amount of storage accumulated in the reservoir system will require a substantial increase in system releases later this month to levels comparable to those which prevailed in the summer and fall of 1969, Morris said.

Power production established a new monthly energy record in June, with 1,373,000,000 kilowatt hours, exceeding the August 1969 record by 3,000,000 kWh.

Navigation tonnage is continuing to run about 25% ahead of last year.

Gavins Points releases are expected to increase to the 50,000 to 55,000 cubic feet per second (cfs) range in late July. The water surface of the Lewis and Clark lake will be held near elevation 1206 to 1207 feet above sea level except as necessary to impound flood runoff.

For Randall releases will be continued near full power plant capacity of about 45,000 cubic feet per second until late in the month when additional flood control outlet releases will be made in connection with the evacuation of flood storage in the system. The lake behind the dam, Lake Francis Case, is expected to lower one or two feet by the end of July.

Oahe and Big Bend releases will average from 40-thousand to 50-thousand cfs with day-to-day variations as necessary to serve power loads. The Oahe lake is expected to lower about one foot unless substantial rainfall runoff occurs. Lake Sharpe (behind Big Bend Dam) will be held near elevation 1420 through the month of July.

Garrison releases will be maintained near full power plant capacity of 34,000 to 38,000 cubic feet per second during July. The level of Lake Sakakawea is expected to rise to about elevation 1850 in July and a bit of Chautauqua staging.

Much of the action from Union Church services to patriotic oratory to fireworks, was on the very grounds which had hosted Nebraska's first Chautauqua Assembly. Shaded old Tuxedo Park still seemed to be smiling at those memories of 1882-97.

Several hundred persons shared in the doings, ranging from girls' softball to a spirited fire fight by local volunteer firemen. Reflecting the 19th century theme was community singing, a box social and square dancing.

Not surprisingly, however, it was a Sunday afternoon parade which attracted the most spectators. All the cool spots plus a good many in the sun were occupied for the passing tributes to both home and country.

Oldsters also came in for recognition. VIP-type convertibles carried Ed Dolansky, 90, the Crete man of longest residency; Herman Hintz, 94, oldest male living in the town today; and Mrs. Anna Reiss, 95, who ranked tops in both categories for local womanhood.

"Only a few days ago we were concerned about entries and then we ended up with at least a dozen more than we planned on," enthused Chamber of Commerce manager Lowell Rochester.

Still panting from its share in the state centennial of four years ago, Crete almost let its own big year slide by. But one set of sparkplugs, led by newcomer Charles Best, said that would never do.

"The old Chautauqua meetings were scheduled around the Fourth of July, so we thought this should be our timing," said the combination airport manager and bookkeeper. "After things got rolling, people really responded and made for a most gratifying event."

As noted in a specially

Youth Drowns At Merritt Beach

Plattsmouth — A youth from Council Bluffs, Iowa, drowned while swimming at Merritt Beach Sunday.

Cass County authorities identified him as Edward Lockman, 17. They said he was swimming toward shore with a companion when he got into trouble.

The companion, Mike Hicks, 17, also of Council Bluffs, told authorities he was able to get Lockman back to the surface but that he went down again in deep water.

Omaha — Many Nebraskans are not having enough Federal income tax withheld from their paychecks, and may wind up owing the government a large amount when they file their 1971 returns, Richard P. Vinal, District Director of Internal Revenue for Nebraska, said.

The solution? Arrange for additional withholding with your employer, who has been furnished information necessary for that purpose.

The standard deduction, formerly 10% has been increased to 13%. The withholding system allows a 13% deduction for all wage earners who are not entitled to the low income allowance.

However, the standard deduction is limited to $1,500.00 on the tax rate. For example, the withholding tables assume that a single taxpayer with a $15,000.00 income will have 13%, or $1,950.00, in deductions. But when the taxpayer fills out his return and takes the $1,500.00 standard deduction, or $450.00 less than the deductions allowed for withholding, he will generally wind up owing tax. The same taxpayer will have a similar problem if his itemized deductions were less than 13% of his income.

Another withholding problem arises when both husband and wife are employed. Although the withholding system gives each employee the new low income allowance, the couple is entitled to only one low income allowance when filing the joint return.

Trade With Reds Up

Washington — U.S. exports to Eastern Europe rose from $198 million in 1966 to $345 million in 1970. U.S. imports from this region climbed from $179 million to $220 million in the same period.

In addition, employees with high income may have too little withheld because the maximum withholding rates are limited to 24% for single persons and 25% for married persons.

Taxpayers most likely to need more withholding are:

—Employees who expect to earn more than $11,500 in 1971

Nebraska News

and intend to claim the $1500.00 standard deduction or itemize deductions totaling less than 13% of their salaries;

—single employees who expect to earn $15,000 or more in 1971;

—married employees who expect to earn $25,000.00 or more in 1971 and whose spouses are not employed; and —working couples.

Employees who are not reasonably sure that enough tax is being withheld should estimate the amount of tax liability on their expected income for 1971. If more withholding is necessary, the taxpayer should file a new exemption certificate (Form W-4) with his employer and claim fewer exemptions, or ask to have specific additional dollar amounts withheld. Since half of the year has already gone by, it is necessary to divide any extra withholding needed by the number of paydays left in the year in order to assure that a sufficient amount is withheld to cover the tax due, Vinal added.

Vinal cautioned against confusing the tax tables and rate schedule for 1970, already mailed to taxpayers, with the 1971 tables and returns made available to employers.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

These are the days for questioning all the old values that have served as the backbone of our nation for many long years. But a lot of the old values still have plenty of life and vitality left in them.

A hot item on the scene today is the so-called consumer crusade. The idea here is that the American people are being bilked and, oftentimes, without even knowing it. It may be true in some cases but it isn't always a new law or regulation that can handle the problem.

Sometimes, for instance, it might be nothing more is needed but a reliance on an old-fashioned idea. One such idea is to treat the customer as though you valued him and whether it's an old idea or not, it still works.

A local optical company recently was called upon to replace a very small screw that held the hinge together on a pair of glasses. The company replaced the screw and refitted the glasses. When the customer started to reach for her pocketbook, she was told there no charge for the service.

Another person visited an optical company to have the lenses replaced in the sun glasses he had recently purchased there. The lens was replaced and the glasses re-fitted, again without charge. Earlier, the company had given this customer a carrying case for his standard pair of glasses that had not even been purchased there.

The employees of this firm give you the impression of being genuinely pleased to be of service to you. They appear to be pleased that you have done business with them and they welcome the chance to be of assistance in the kind of small things that make a big difference to the customer.

Recently, a man and his wife had occasion to purchase some merchandise. The salesman was very cooperative and helpful. When a purchase was finally made, the owner of the store himself joined the salesman in thanking the couple for doing business with them. The couple was assured that if anything at all was wrong with the merchandise, the problem would be quickly handled to the satisfaction of the customer.

The whole approach in all these situations was one of a desire to be of service or assistance, not merely to peddle the inventory. We would venture to say that a whale of a lot of business is done as a result of such an approach.

Where does a man buy a new suit? Not where the sales clerk acts as though the customer is a burden to him. The new suit is bought, among other things, where the customer is made to feel comfortable in a personal sense.

If you take the suit back a month later and have lost a button, does the store gladly fix the garment up again, without charge, or does it take the situation grudgingly and chisel a dollar or two out of you for its trouble?

A store may make pennies on some small service and lose dollars in profits on sales it would have otherwise made in the future. There remains a lot of virtue in the old theory of treating a customer as though you would like him to return, as though you appreciated his doing business with you.

Of course, you have to have a little sympathy, too, for the clerk who often has to deal with people who want service beyond the call of duty and beyond the practical limits of a profit-motivated economic system. We are reminded of a fellow who called in on a local radio station's public forum program and inquired as to the question under discussion.

Whatever the question was, the fellow was prepared to give an answer. Putting it another way, he didn't know the question but he knew the answer.

It's not uncommon for someone to believe he knows everything and it's a short step from there to the point where he believes the world owes him a living. Naturally, clerks know nothing in the presence of people and the store is expected to gladly go along with any far-fetched story or claim.

Of course, it's a two-way street on which we all live, whatever it is we are doing and whatever our work might be. That is another pretty old value but one that also still has a lot of life and vitality left in it.

Long Tresses Seen As Health Hazard

NEW YORK—By now even the most conservative members of the so-called Establishment have accepted the longer hair-fashions of men. Since George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and Jesus Christ wore their hair long, it is finally being conceded that the style is not necessarily un-American or uncivilized.

Even as the lengthy lock is achieving a certain status as the thinking man's mane, however, some rather alarming facts have come to light in medical circles. To wit: Long hair on the heads of doctors and staff members of hospitals can present a "hair-borne hazard" to patients. In a medical report recently, Dr. Peter Dineen, clinical professor of surgery at New York Hospital-Cornell University Medical Center, traced some staphylococcal wound infections to one fashionably-coiffed member of an operating team. Dr. Dineen proved that the doctor was carrying a staphylococcus aureus in his hairdo.

A report five years earlier, in the Journal of Clinical Pathology, had indicated that "hair carriers of staph are at least as common as, if not more prevalent than, nasal carriers."

Thus, Dr. Dineen saw the need to cover the hair—as well as the nose and mouth—during surgery. A special shampoo with a microbial agent is also helpful, he said, although long hair is difficult to keep clean, no matter how often it is scrubbed.

"I feel sure we could insist on haircuts," he said in Medical World News. "After all, surgery is by its nature an authoritarian discipline. But ideally we'd like to be able to cover the hair so that individuals can wear any hair style."

Thus, at his hospital, a "helmet" has been developed. It is a hood of cotton or paper that covers most of the head,

'Shall We Keep Using That Line About Not Advocating Censorship?'

New Peace Initiatives

The Nixon administration would have to turn its back on much of what U.S. governments have stood for over the years if it were to accept the latest seven-point North Vietnamese plan for ending the war. And yet, even if the U.S. cannot accept all of the provisions of the plan, both sides appear to be growing closer as each gives in a little more each time a new proposal is offered.

Although not usually associated with the most vocal of the anti-war opposition in the Senate, but a critic of the war of long standing nonetheless, Majority Leader Mike Mansfield has joined with Speaker of the House Carl Albert in praising the President for his behind-the-scenes initiatives for peace. The support of the leadership of the Democrats, one a hawk, the other a dove, gives some credence to reports that things are taking shape behind the scenes toward a negotiated settlement of the war.

The plan presented to the Paris Vietnam talks said that if the U.S. would set a deadline for a complete withdrawal of all U.S. troops from South Vietnam before the end of this year, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong would

Draft In Limbo

Under some circumstances, the expiration of the nation's draft law would be an historic and highly significant thing. Such, however, is not the case with the draft law having expired as it has at this time.

We might well wish otherwise, for an end to the draft would mark a high point of achievement for the nation in times that seem to grow constantly more troubled. Not only is the draft a product of undesirable international conditions, but it is a heavy burden upon the young people of the nation.

This temporary end to the draft placed an even further uncertainty in the paths of the nation's young men.

While some may think it good that the draft be held up as it has been in Congress, the fact is that the draft situation is not a matter of its own merits. The draft law has failed to be extended because it contains an amendment by Sen. Mike Mansfield for a specific withdrawal date from Vietnam.

Shattered Faith Of The American People

Might Be Renewed By Reciprocal Trust

WASHINGTON—Among the other debates set off by publication of the Pentagon Papers is one on the solemn question of whether the Johnson administration lied to the people, while escalating the Vietnam war, or merely misled them artfully.

This may put honest men in mind of the subtitle to Stephen Potter's classic dissertation on "Gamesmanship" or How to Win without Actually Cheating; but it is taken seriously in these precincts where numbers of people will argue heatedly that government half-truths, cover-ups, obfuscations, sophistries, euphemisms and curve balls are permissible tools of the trade. So long as a "real lie" (meaning outright the probable) is not employed to gull the people.

Even those who adhere to this reasoning, most of whom are government officials past, present and — they hope — future, would hardly deny, however, that the faith of the American people in their government has been badly shaken.

"Right on," said the boy. "And we were born nude. People who wear clothes should have to explain themselves."

"I've thought about it, and decided not to."

"Why?"

"Because it only takes me ten minutes to shave, and guys with beards have to spend hours explaining why they have beards."

"That's absurd. Nature put hair on men's faces, so men who don't shave don't have to explain why."

"Right on," said the boy. "And we were born nude. People who wear clothes should have to explain themselves."

"I've thought about it, and decided not to."

"Dumb, isn't it?" remarked the girl.

"What isn't?" said the boy.

"So why don't you grow a beard as a protest against general dumbness?"

"And why don't you go around nude?"

"Maybe I will."

Solemn, Spirited Activities Mark July 4

By The Associated Press

At home and abroad, solemnly and in high spirits, Americans marked the 195th anniversary of the nation's birthday Sunday.

In some places the July 4 weekend festivities had been kicked off Saturday, in others the main celebration comes Monday, a holiday for much of the work force.

In Washington, President Nixon and top government officials looked beyond the current anniversary and started the five-year countdown to Independence Day 1976, the bicentennial of the United States.

In a ceremony in the National Archives, where the original Declaration of Independence is displayed, President Nixon opened the "bicentennial era" Saturday night, declaring the goal of the nation between now and 1976 is "the building of an open world."

In Vietnam, an independence Day message from the U.S. commander, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, to his men Sunday said America's independence "remain unchanged but now unchallenged."

"The scene has changed," Abrams said, "but the purpose and goals that fired the Americans of 1776 have remained intact... As we honor our nation... we do so with the hope and conviction that the liberty that we enjoy might some day be shared by all mankind."

In neighboring Cambodia, American embassy and military officials gathered in a villa outside Phnom Penh for a hamburger, hot dog, baked bean and potato salad cookout. They played touch football and water polo in a drenching monsoon.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew drank a champagne toast to the country as the traveling party celebrated Independence Day in his jet above Southeast Asia, en route from Seoul, South Korea, to Singapore. The vice president then cut into a cake that bore the greeting "Happy 4th of July."

In Manila, Americans took note of the day in ceremonies commemorating the burning and burial of American flags by U.S. personnel there 20 years ago to keep the stars and stripes from falling into the hands of the invading Japanese army. Ambassador Henry Byroade unveiled a monument symbolically marking the spot where the deed was done.

In Denmark, about 20,000 Danes, Americans and Danish-Americans gathered for the traditional Independence Day celebrations among the Red Hills near Aalborg. U.S. Ambassador Gifford Dudley read a message from President Nixon and American actor Raymond Burr addressed the crowd.

At home, the day was given over to picnics, outings and swimming for many families and traditional local observances. The celebrations in various parts of Kansas were typical.

At the Turtle Creek reservoir near Manhattan, Kan., for example, sailboat races and a fishing derby were held as a prelude to Sunday evening's lighted boat parade and fireworks display.

Perry Reservoir, northeast of Topeka, was the site of a regatta, running through Monday.

Military Review

A band concert and fireworks was the program at the University of Kansas stadium in Lawrence, while at Ft. Riley, a full-scale military review was mounted.

Turtle races and a tug of war preceded an evening watermelon feed in Neosho Rapids, Kan., and Holton, Kan., was holding swimming and diving contests and a Miss Patriotism contest before setting off fireworks.

In New York, the cast of "1776", a musical based on the drawing up of the Declaration of Independence, gathered in Times Square in costume to read the document aloud.

Wedding At Statue

At the Statue of Liberty, a small crowd gathered to witness the wedding of Jana Gillespie and Bruce Foster, who received permission from the National Park Service to be married at the national monument on the Fourth of July.

Philadelphia, where the declaration was signed, stages its main event Monday — a parade of flags of the original 13 states and a sound and light history show at Independence Hall.

In Monticello, Va., birthplace of Thomas Jefferson, 44 immigrants will take the oath of citizenship in ceremonies Monday.

Atlanta's 11th annual salute to America Parade on Monday, said to be the nation's largest Independence Day event, will have the Rev. Billy Graham as its grand marshal. Last year an estimated 350,000 spectators watched.

In New Haven, Conn., the gravesite of Roger Sherman, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, will be the scene of observances held since 1932 by the Sons of the American Revolution. The SAR has been promoting a national movement to pay homage to all 56 signers. Connecticut groups also planned to assemble at graves of William Williams in Lebanon, Samuel Huntington in Norwich and Oliver Wolcott in Litchfield.

The week's concluding event will be the Monday evening ceremonies in the capital at the Washington Monument. A rock band will perform there, however, rather than the U.S. Air Force band, a choice made by the National Parks Service and the D.C. Freedom and Independence Day Committee.

Travelers received free cookies and lemonade at Interstate 40 rest stops Sunday as part of a program to promote holiday traffic safety. The refreshments were provided by members of Odd Fellow and Rebekah lodges throughout the state as well as

Britons Urged To Look For American Antiques

London (UPI) — Britons were advised on America's Independence Day to search their attics because they might find a small treasure — an American antique to sell to Americans visiting the old country.

A leading authority on antiques said bits of Americana are in demand and selling well in British auctions these days.

Primitive paintings, Currier and Ives prints, clocks, guns and Indian relics are popular. Also Tiffany lamps and odd pieces of American furniture.

'Got Out Of Hand'

Deborah Stratton of the London Sunday Telegraph told her readers: "Ales, it was 195 years ago that these colonies got out of hand and have rarely listened to us since."

"But you would be very lucky if you were to discover an American antique in your attic. You would be well-rewarded for most items, as American artifacts find much honor in their own country."

Only last week saw sales of Indian ethnographical at two famous London sales rooms — Sotheby's and Bonham's. They were mostly small items such as knives, and clubs of uncertain origin, going for under $100. But more recognized Indian works of art, such as masks and totems, bring much higher prices.

Among other treasures of the past which have been found to be in demand: scrimshaw, the whalebone and walrus tusks that were carved aboard New England whalers who docked in England, and pot lids originally made in the 19th century here for the American market.

The British expert said William and Mary, Queen Anne and Georgian styles made by American cabinet makers such as Duncan Phyfe and John Goddard are "more revered by Americans than the finest Chippendale."

"Why, you may ask," Miss Stratton wrote, "if America copied European styles, do they prefer their own adulterations to the European originals?"

"The reason is that America developed her own unique variations on these items."

"American styles tended towards the simple and utilitarian, a heritage of Puritanism, and the settlers needed to conserve their energies for pure survival."

The American Revolution is a phase of British history that the British have tended to forget and Independence Day is ignored.

Even in schools, the American patriots are called "settlers" — never rebels.

A student of British history explained: "The subject is taught largely in relation to the political struggles it caused in England. There is also emphasis on the support the American colonists received from the French."

"Why, you may ask," Miss Stratton wrote, "if America copied European styles, do they prefer their own adulterations to the European originals?"

A Former Coed Is A July Bride

Carol Sue Grant, sister of the bride; and bridesmaids, Mrs. James F. Wheeler, Mrs. James W. Grant III, and Mrs. Thomas Nash.

W. Eugene Corbin of San Diego, Calif., served as best man, and the ushers included James W. Grant, III, Mark Hahn, Stephen Pearson of Long Beach, and the Rev. Richard Cheatham of Claremont, Calif.

The bride chose a Priscilla of Boston gown fashioned of silk-faced peau de soie and designed with a long-sleeved Empire bodice patterned with pearl-trimmed re-embroidered Alencon lace which also contoured the jewel neckline, and the lace and pearl motif was repeated on the cathedral train. A face-framing Victorian coif of lace and seed pearls held to the head her double-tiered veil of illusion.

The bride is a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University where she is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

Mr. Green attended Arizona State University at Tempe; Whittier Junior College at Whittier, Calif., and now is a senior at California State University at Fullerton, Calif.

The wedding of Miss Kathleen Grant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wright Grant Jr., of Auburn, and John Powell Green, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Powell Green of Redlands, Calif., took place on Friday afternoon, July 2, at the United Methodist Church in Auburn.

The attendants were Mrs. Richard Warburton of Foster City, Calif., the matron of honor; maid of honor Miss Honoria Heer of El Paso, Tex.; junior maid of honor, Miss Announcing plans this morning for a late July wedding is Miss Nancy Rae Knapp, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ray Knapp, who has chosen Saturday, July 24, as the date of her marriage to James F. Dalton, son of Mrs. Claud Thompson of Guide Rock and the late Fred Dalton.

Miss Knapp has named Mrs. Robert Robertus as her honor attendant for the 2 o'clock ceremony which will be solemnized at the home of her great uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Weaver.

Serving Mr. Dalton as best man will be Richard Knapp, brother of the bride-elect.

MISS PATRICIA LORENZ
This morning Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Lorenz of Rockville make announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Sue, to Rodney Dean Oliverius, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Oliverius of Sidney.

No wedding date is named.

Miss Lorenz is a junior at the University of Nebraska where she is majoring in fashion merchandising, and she also is caring at the Woodman Accident and Life Insurance Co.

Mr. Oliverius is attending the University of Nebraska where he is majoring in medical chemistry.

Opening lead — five of hearts. While it is true that the bidding in world championships comes as close to absolute accuracy as is humanly possible, it is also a fact that hands do occasionally arise where the contestants fall short of their vaunted expertise.

Take this case from the Italy-U.S. match in 1969. At the first table, with Reape North and Lazard South, the American pair arrived at six spades on the bidding shown.

Undoubtedly six diamonds would have been a safer contract, since it would have been less subject to a ruff. But luckily the Italian West chose to lead a heart instead of the ace and another diamond, and Lazard made the slam for a score of 1,430 points.

At the second table with Garozzo and Belladonna North-South for Italy, the bidding went as follows:

WEST North East South
Pass 1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠
Pass 2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠
Pass 4 NT Pass 5 NT
Pass 6 ♠ Pass 6 ♠
Pass 7 ♠

Again a heart was led, but there was no way for declarer to avoid losing a diamond and Belladonna went down one to bring the Italian team a loss of 1,530 points on the deal.

Generally speaking, the Italians are the best slam bidders in the world, and for them to undertake a grand slam missing an ace is almost unheard of in the annals of bridge. Apparently, Garozzo thought Belladonna's bidding represented all four aces, and he based his last bid on that assumption.

All of which goes to show that

trumpet disagreement
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Far be it for me, an ex-semiprofessional trumpet player, to argue with Harry James, Louie Armstrong, or Al Hirt but I must. I strongly suspect that you asked the wrong question and therefore got the wrong answer.

I defy any trumpet player, regardless of credentials, to engage in heavy necking for an hour or so and then "wail" at his best. Let's face it—anyone who wants to play his trumpet after heavy necking must be dizzy, or must have grown up as I did in the era when necking was usually an end in itself.

A little kissing never "hurt" any trumpet man worthy of the name. However, heavy necking, worthy of the name usually turns your embouchure into undercooked abalone!

Signed: NOT-SO-OLD MAN WITH HORN(S)

DEAR ABBY: Regarding trumpet playing and kissing: I have been married to a trumpet player for 28 blissful years. Although he is no longer a career musician he plays his trumpet each evening to keep his lips hot. The nights he plays "The Flight of the Bumble Bee"—WOW!!!

WELL-KISSED

DEAR WELL: You're lucky you aren't married to a violinist. They just fiddle around.

DEAR ABBY: I noticed a trumpet player didn't like to kiss as he thought it would ruin his career. My husband is a dentist and he doesn't like to kiss either. He says that after working with mouths all day he doesn't find them very romantic. Do you think he is putting me on?

DENTISTS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: No, I think he is putting you OFF!

DEAR ABBY: While I'm not in the same league with Harry James, Mannie Klein, Herb Alpert and Al Hirt, I'm a professional trumpet player and I'd like to get a few licks in about kissing and trumpet playing. I think kissing has improved my trumpet playing. And trumpet playing has improved my kissing.

Weekend Reunion

During the weekend, the Lincoln High School class of 1961 celebrated its 10-year reunion. The festivities began on Friday evening, July 2, with a casual gathering at the new Izaak Walton League Club House. To make former classmates feel right at home, they were asked to "come dressed as you were in 1961."

Bright and early Saturday morning, the group congregated at the scene of the crime, so to speak, Lincoln High School, for a coffee from 10 o'clock to noon.

The grand finale of the weekend was a dinner-dance, preceded by cocktails, on Saturday evening at the Elks Club.

David Drevo served as general chairman for the reunion, and sharing the spotlight as masters of ceremonies Thursday evening were Robert Bettenhausen and Doug Thom.

A Former Coed Is A July Bride

Carol Sue Grant, sister of the bride; and bridesmaids, Mrs. James F. Wheeler, Mrs. James W. Grant III, and Mrs. Thomas Nash.

W. Eugene Corbin of San Diego, Calif., served as best man, and the ushers included James W. Grant, III, Mark Hahn, Stephen Pearson of Long Beach, and the Rev. Richard Cheatham of Claremont, Calif.

The bride chose a Priscilla of Boston gown fashioned of silk-faced peau de soie and designed with a long-sleeved Empire bodice patterned with pearl-trimmed re-embroidered Alencon lace which also contoured the jewel neckline, and the lace and pearl motif was repeated on the cathedral train. A face-framing Victorian coif of lace and seed pearls held to the head her double-tiered veil of illusion.

The bride is a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University where she is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

Mr. Green attended Arizona State University at Tempe; Whittier Junior College at Whittier, Calif., and now is a senior at California State University at Fullerton, Calif.

The wedding of Miss Kathleen Grant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wright Grant Jr., of Auburn, and John Powell Green, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Powell Green of Redlands, Calif., took place on Friday afternoon, July 2, at the United Methodist Church in Auburn.

The attendants were Mrs. Richard Warburton of Foster City, Calif., the matron of honor; maid of honor Miss Honoria Heer of El Paso, Tex.; junior maid of honor, Miss

Attendants Named

Announcing plans this morning for a late July wedding is Miss Nancy Rae Knapp, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ray Knapp, who has chosen Saturday, July 24, as the date or her marriage to James F. Dalton, son of Mrs. Claud Thompson of Guide Rock and the late Fred Dalton.

Miss Knapp has named Mrs. Robert Robertus as her honor attendant for the 2 o'clock ceremony which will be solemnized at the home of her great uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Weaver.

Serving Mr. Dalton as best man will be Richard Knapp, brother of the bride-elect.

Opening lead — five of hearts.
While it is true that the bidding in world championships comes as close to absolute accuracy as is humanly possible, it is also a fact that hands do occasionally arise where the contestants fall short of their vaunted expertise.

Take this case from the Italy-U.S. match in 1969. At the first table, with Rapee North and Lazard South, the American pair arrived at six spades on the bidding shown.

Undoubtedly six diamonds would have been a safer contract, since it would have been less subject to a ruff. But luckily the Italian West chose to lead a heart instead of the ace and another diamond, and Lazard made the slam for a score of 1,430 points.

At the second table with Garozzo and Belladonna North-South for Italy, the bidding went as follows:

West North East South
Pass 1♦ 1♦ 1♦ 1♦
Pass 2♦ Pass 3♦
Pass 4NT Pass 5NT
Pass 6♦ Pass 6♦
Pass 7♦

Again a heart was led, but there was no way for declarer to avoid losing a diamond and Belladonna went down one to bring the Italian team a loss of 1,530 points on the deal.

Generally speaking, the Italians are the best slam bidders in the world, and for them to undertake a grand slam missing an ace is almost unheard of in the annals of bridge. Apparently Garozzo thought Belladonna's bidding represented all four aces, and he based his last bid on that assumption.

All of which goes to show that

The marriage of Miss Colleen Nilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Nilson of Ceresco, to Patrick Keady, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Keady of Lincoln, took place on Saturday afternoon, June 26, at the Grace Methodist Church in Swedeburg.

Miss Cheri Kuhns of Valparaiso, the maid of honor, and bridesmaid Miss Dianne Virgil of Raymond were frocked in floral patterned organza over lavender, while junior bridesmaid, Miss Candace Nilson, wore white eyelet embroidery over white.

Joseph Burbach of Lincoln served as best man and the groomsmen and ushers were Tom Keady, Michael Keady, John Keady and Clark Nilson.

The bride appeared in a gown of sheer organza over taffeta in the A-line silhouette. The Empire bodice, fashioned with a high, lace-banded collar and lace-cuffed Bishop sleeves, was fitted above the slender skirt which was completed with an organza train, appliqued with lace which extended into a fullness at the hem. A cape of pearls held in place her bouffant veil, and she carried a bouquet of white roses and daisies.

Breakfast

The members of Parents Without Partners and their families had a Fourth of July breakfast yesterday at the shelter house at Antelope Park.

Following the 8 o'clock breakfast cook out, they all joined in outdoor games.

THE BRIDAL SHOWER is one of the most pleasant ways to honor a dear bride-to-be.

Hostesses at a recent linen shower were Mrs. C. F. Bower and Mrs. W. H. Ress — and the guest of honor at the party was Miss Rhonda Stemm, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert M. Stemm whose marriage to John Becker will be solemnized on Friday, July 31.

Poll: Safety Concern Grows

By LOUIS HARRIS
The number of Americans who this summer are "more worried about violence and safety on the streets" in their own community as compared to a year ago has now reached 55 percent, the highest level yet recorded by the Harris Survey in six years of polling on the subject.

Violence
A Concern

FEARS OF RACIAL VIOLENCE

	More Worried	Less Worried	Safe	Not Sure
1971	55%	59%	39%	19%
1968	53%	49%	42%	18%
1966	49%	39%	44%	49%

The main source of worry and fear over personal safety on the streets would appear to be among black women, an estimated 8 to 10 of whom feel anxious. It is ironic that what is sometimes interpreted to be simply white fears of black unrest turns out to be much more a case of black women who are frightened by lack of protection against the drug-infested, crime-ridden atmosphere on many of the inner-city streets of the nation.

The tragedy, of course, is that a majority of Americans of every race so openly worry about their personal safety on the streets of their own neighborhoods. And the trend appears to be in the direction of a spreading of this apprehension. It is small consolation that more of the concern appears to be over rising crime than over racial tensions. The fact is that fear to walk the streets has now become part of the American way of life.

Copyright 1971 by Chicago Tribune-New York Syndicate, Inc. World Rights Reserved

Suspect Arrested
For Extortion

In the case of "worry about violence and personal safety on the streets," 53 percent of whites say this is a concern to them, but a much higher 68 percent of blacks express anxiety about street violence.

When the specific issue of racial tension is examined, the pattern is similar. Although 52 percent of whites express fear and uneasiness over possible outbreaks of racial violence, a higher 59 percent of the blacks say they feel apprehensive about such a possibility.

Given this higher level of black worry over personal safety on the streets, one is tempted to conclude that the source of insecurity is far more rooted in fear of street crime among all races than in racial tensions.

Safety A Concern

The fact that people feel more worry about safety on the streets but are slightly less concerned over racial violence than three years ago would also point to the same conclusion.

There is still another dimension to these feelings of personal insecurity: the wide differences in apprehension which exist by sex. While just under half of all men in the country express a feeling of insecurity, 62 percent of the women say they are "worried about violence in the streets." A slightly lower 57 percent of the women single out fear of racial violence as a cause of that unease.

Repeatedly, cross sections of the public have been asked an identical question dealing with their sense of personal security. The latest survey was taken in mid-June among a cross section of 1614 households:

"Compared to a year ago, are you personally more worried about violence and safety on the streets, less worried, or do you feel about the same as you did then?"

SAFETY ON THE STREETS

More Worried Less Worried Same Not Sure

1971 55% 59% 39% 19%

1968 53% 49% 42% 18%

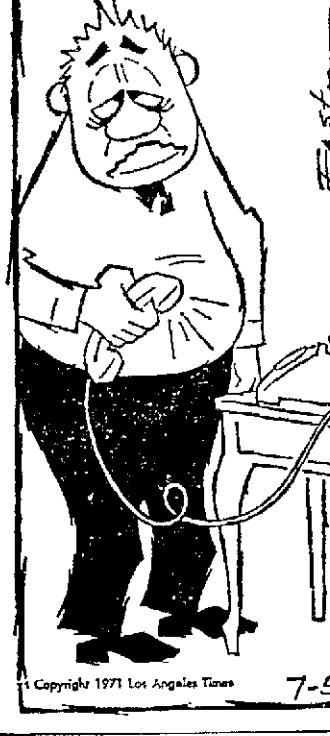

1966 49% 39% 44% 49%

A basic question in understanding the source of these anxieties is to determine just how much is due to racial tensions and how much to a growing feeling that crime and lawlessness generally is on the increase. Over the same period of time, the Harris Survey has asked this parallel question dealing specifically with racial fears:

"Does the fear of racial violence make you feel personally more uneasy on the streets or not?"

by

Stan DeJapla

It was a drippy 89 degrees when I got off the plane in Montreal. The Canadian Customs man said: "Ang cigarettes? Liquor?" I said: "Two cartons."

All countries allow two cartons of cigarettes. I bought them in the free port at Shannon, $2.40 each. The Customs man looked sad. He looked up at the ceiling. I opened the bag and showed him. Honest John.

He gave me a pained look. Like, "Why did you have to TELL me?" He said: "You are only allowed to bring ONE carton into Canada." I went down to the Customs cashier. I paid the duty—$2.90. Experience is expensive.

The Province of Quebec is the biggest, the oldest. The proudest of its ancient French heritage. Eight of every ten people speak French. Traffic signs are in two languages and, when you come to the red sign at the boulevard, it says:

ARRET
STOP

I checked into the Queen Elizabeth—which carries in equally large letters "Le Reine Elizabeth"—and the doorman said: "Bon jour, M'sieu. Il fait tres chaud." Gave me a second glance and switched unaccustomed to, "I'll send your bags right up."

"We feel that we are surrounded by a sea of Anglo-Saxons," said the French-Canadian who took me to dinner. "We are 6 million of Canada's 22 million. But we were here first! New France! La belle Province!

"We want to preserve our French language. Our French culture."

"But, if I want to succeed in business, I must do business in English."

He said: "It is more than that — we are all bilingual anyway. It is like this: We have ten people having dinner. Nine speak French at home. But we all begin to speak English for the benefit of the tenth person who doesn't speak French."

"These are the irritations of Quebec."

Half of the province's 6 million lives in Montreal. It's a bustling big city, a large part of it is underground.

"Because of the fierce winters," said the French-Canadian. "You can take the subway

The local tourist bureau is under fire presently for printing a book: "Quebec — Oui, M'sieu (Yessir)." It is a guide to Quebec customs. For foreigners.

The French-Canadian said stiffly: "They printed it ONLY in English."

I said: "But it's obviously for Americans — 95 per cent of your tourists."

He said: "It's impossible for an Anglo-Saxon to understand."

I said: "You know, I've been staying in French hotels. And I must say you Quebecois have improved the innkeeping business over the sons of the stay-at-homes."

He said: "It isn't that we feel strong ties with France itself. It is our heritage we feel is threatened. Just to make a living forces us into a different cultural situation."

Adm. Hart, Fleet Chief, Dies At 94

Sharon, Conn. (P) — Retired Adm. Thomas C. Hart, commander in chief of the Asiatic Fleet at the time of Pearl Harbor and a former U. S. senator died early Sunday in his home at the age of 94.

Hart was credited officially with performing his duties prior to the Japanese attack "in a manner which left nothing to be desired."

A few months after the outbreak of hostilities, President Franklin D. Roosevelt presented him with the Gold Star, equivalent to a second Distinguished Service Medal.

Commended Subs

From Jan. 17 to Feb. 11, 1942, Hart commanded the entire allied naval force in the Far East.

He was a veteran of three wars. During the Spanish-American War, Hart served in Cuban waters, and in World War I commanded submarines off the British Isles and in the Azores. It was for his services in World War I that he received his first Distinguished Service Medal.

From May 1931 to June 1934 Hart was superintendent of the U. S. Naval Academy. After various other assignments, he became a member of the Navy General Board, the Navy's top policy-advisory agency, and was serving as chairman when appointed commander in chief of the Asiatic Fleet with the rank of admiral.

Connecticut Senator

In the summer of 1942, the four-star admiral was placed on the retired list. He was then a year past the retirement age of 64. But he was immediately recalled to active service as a member of the General Board.

Hart, Republican, was appointed in February 1945 to fill a vacancy in the U. S. Senate caused by the death of Francis T. Maloney of Connecticut. He resigned a year and nine months later.

Wealthy in his own right, Hart maintained his own riding horses when stationed in Washington.

He was married in 1910 to Caroline Brownson, daughter of Rear Adm. Willard W. Brownson. They had five children.

A tap dance troupe, Stacy Burbach, Peggy Costin, Genelle Gibson, Kim Nore, Michelle Rasseguie and Linda Taylor, placed first in the nine to 13-year age group. Second place went to Brian Boles.

In the 14 and older division, Tracy Gabelman, Beth Costin and Genalee Gibson garnered first place honors. Diane Kondak, Lynn Strasburg, Connie Strasburg and Lori Culross came in second.

Adm. Hart, Fleet Chief, Dies At 94

Sharon, Conn. (P) — Retired Adm. Thomas C. Hart, commander in chief of the Asiatic Fleet at the time of Pearl Harbor and a former U. S. senator died early Sunday in his home at the age of 94.

Hart was credited officially with performing his duties prior to the Japanese attack "in a manner which left nothing to be desired."

A few months after the outbreak of hostilities, President Franklin D. Roosevelt presented him with the Gold Star, equivalent to a second Distinguished Service Medal.

Commended Subs

From Jan. 17 to Feb. 11, 1942, Hart commanded the entire allied naval force in the Far East.

He was a veteran of three wars. During the Spanish-American War, Hart served in Cuban waters, and in World War I commanded submarines off the British Isles and in the Azores. It was for his services in World War I that he received his first Distinguished Service Medal.

From May 1931 to June 1934 Hart was superintendent of the U. S. Naval Academy. After various other assignments, he became a member of the Navy General Board, the Navy's top policy-advisory agency, and was serving as chairman when appointed commander in chief of the Asiatic Fleet with the rank of admiral.

Connecticut Senator

In the summer of 1942, the four-star admiral was placed on the retired list. He was then a year past the retirement age of 64. But he was immediately recalled to active service as a member of the General Board.

Hart, Republican, was appointed in February 1945 to fill a vacancy in the U. S. Senate caused by the death of Francis T. Maloney of Connecticut. He resigned a year and nine months later.

Wealthy in his own right, Hart maintained his own riding horses when stationed in Washington.

He was married in 1910 to Caroline Brownson, daughter of Rear Adm. Willard W. Brownson. They had five children.

Prime Minister Yew Appears To Be Winning Dispute Over Purge

Singapore (UPI) — The enemies of Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew appear to be getting burned most by the heat generated when Lee led a purge against the press. It seems almost as if he had planned it that way.

Lee dropped a bombshell at the International Press Institute (IPI) meeting in Helsinki several weeks ago when newsmen questioned him about his crackdown against three Singapore newspapers. The shrapnel has spread to the only political opposition in years to battle Lee's powerful People's Action Party (PAP).

The newly created people's front party was gaining islandwide attention in its articulate bid to become a reasonable alternative to pap for elections to be held before mid-1973. Not anymore—not since a sharp rift developed in the party ranks after Lee's Helsinki appearance.

The focus of the rift is Zakaria Bin Omar Bagharib, the vice president of the people's front and husband of Dr. Shirle Gordon, a sociologist well known in academic circles here and in the United States.

One of the things Lee said in Helsinki was that Dr. Gordon married a Singapore spy, presumably Bagharib.

A London editor asked Lee at a Helsinki news conference what was behind the Singapore government decree banning press coverage last July of the official denial to permit re-entry into Singapore of Dr. Gordon.

Dr. Gordon, he replied, "trained to be a CIA (U.S. Central Intelligence Agency) operator, was unsuccessful, got married to a series of Malaysian politicians, eventually married one of our agents."

Dr. Gordon later denied the charge and in a statement from her home in Malaysia said she deplored American intelligence incursions into the affairs of foreign countries. She said she never had anything to do with the CIA and contradicted the allegation about her husband. "On the contrary, I married a humble Malay teacher, civil servant and vice president of a political party in opposition to the prime minister's People's Action Party," she said.

But Lee's charge was successful in dividing the peoples front over Bagharib.

Several of the party's executive committeemen are known to want the "suspect" Bagharib drummed out of the ranks. Secretary General Lui Boon Poh, currently hospitalized and unavailable for comment, is reported to favor retaining Bagharib.

The Singapore Straits Times has said the dispute threatens to split the party, destroying its thus far small base of unified leadership.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST
By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast For Monday
An Aries (March 21-April 19) will be impressed by the influence of the planet Mars in his sign. However, many born under this zodiacal sign experience eye trouble and are squinting. Aries harmonizes with Sagittarius. Leo and Cancer are the best signs for him. Pisces are especially good in a financial sense for those born under Pisces. When it comes to qualities of natural leadership, Aries usually stands at the top of the list.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be prepared for possible opposition from older, conservative individual. A Capricorn appears to figure prominently. Unnecessary travel should be avoided. Be sure to receive proper protection.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Male business partner may be too free-and-easy with your assets. Check his financial inventories. Be sure to receive proper protection. Ask questions — receive answers.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Be ready for added responsibilities. Family member is involved. Diplomatic approach serves best purposes. Study Taurus message. Avoid undue risks. Find out where money is going.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): One you usually depend upon turns the tables. A partner in a business venture may be shaken. Guard against undue nervous tension. Steer straight course. No self-deception.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Some of your decisions will be reversed. Review previous may be necessary. Don't be in too much of a hurry. The money will not run away. Jealousy is in picture; be in control.

VIENNA (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your overly ambitious could create aura of envy. Study potential. Avoid petty arguments. Look beyond the immediate. One who asks advice may be a friend in need.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You run into obstacles of your own making. Take matters slow-and-easy. You will instinctively know what is best to do. Applies especially to affairs of the heart.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Guard personal possessions. Someone may be trying to steal your thunder. Be alert.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You and your partner may be surprised.

Your own concepts will prove to be accurate, valuable. What others say may be mere smoke screen. Perceive ultimate meaning.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): What appears to be direct may, in actuality, be shrouded in deception. Check apparent motives. Read between the lines and study fine print. Change routine. Be wary.

AGRIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): One you know in passing may make a surprise appearance. Get rid of layers of pretense. Avoid actions based on hypocrisy. Direct approach succeeds. Communicate valid information.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You may find yourself coming home to face music. Key is to dance to your own tune. Those who know best may be pulling strings on their own behalf.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are considered unusual, an attractive to many. Your opposite sex, in particular, is expected. This arouses envy. Social life now is accelerated. By September, you may be engaged in special study; you could also be on a vacation. This will be an exciting time for you.

Indians Question University Name

Davis, Calif. (IP) — Trustees of Deganawidah-Quetzalcoatl University are considering shortening the unwieldy name of the nation's only university for Indians and Mexican-Americans.

The suggested change? Delihuaylo-Quetzalcoatl University — one letter shorter.

Some Indians have objected to Deganawidah, a famed Iroquois leader, because his name is considered sacred, explained DQU trustee Jack Forbes. The new name is an Indian word meaning "the people." Quetzalcoatl was an Aztec hero.

Indians Question University Name

Davis, Calif. (P) — Trustees of De Anza College-Quetzalcoatl University are considering shortening the unwieldy name of the nation's only university for Indians and Mexican-Americans.

The suggested change? Delihuay-Quetzalcoatl University — one letter shorter.

Some Indians have objected to De Anza, a fabled Iroquois leader, because his name is considered sacred, explained DQU trustee Jack Forbes. The new name is an Indian word meaning "the people." Quetzalcoatl was an Aztec hero.

Canada Makes Loan
Ottawa (P) — The Canadian International Development Agency has loaned Malaysia $3.5 million to help finance a hydroelectric power project.

Cerv Not Busy

Last year at this time Bob Cerv was busy coaching a Liberal, Kan. baseball team to a 47-7 record and the Kansas state championship.

And Cerv has done similar things in the summer to fill the gap when he's not teaching and coaching at John F. Kennedy College during the school year but not this summer.

"I'm just taking it easy this summer," Cerv says. "I plan on going on two Oldtimers Games in August."

"I could've coached at several places this year and taken my family along like last summer. But when we went to Liberal, the kids were late in starting school because the season lasted so long and this along with other factors contributed to deciding to stay at home this year."

Cerv's desire to stay near his boyhood surroundings is evident in his turning down other coaching jobs.

"I guess I could've stayed in the majors as a coach or scout but I didn't like the traveling that would be involved," Cerv explained.

"I'd have been away from my family for weeks and that is something I didn't want to do. I've turned down other college jobs for the same reason (traveling) and the job would take me away from here."

Cerv guided JFK's baseball team to a 20-6 record this year, the school's best record and is one main reason other schools are interested in obtaining Cerv's services.

"I should have all the guys back next season except three and we'll have a better schedule," Cerv said. "Drake and Creighton were added last year and we hope to add other major schools next year."

JFK Outlook Good

Unlike some other schools in the state which have dropped athletic programs, Cerv is optimistic about the Wahoo college.

"We didn't get into athletics heavily like Hiram Scott and Pershing, so we've never really had any problems," he pointed out. "When I recruit an athlete I tell him if he makes the team and does well in school, then I'll bat for him."

"We've had several of our athletes earn academic scholarships and this has helped our program. I don't foresee any cutbacks in our athletic program."

Meanwhile, Cerv is helping out the school by teaching classes this summer.

"Teaching is a good reason for staying around here in the summer and gives me a chance to see my three boys play ball," he said.

"I took them up to the College World Series to see Tulsa play because Butcher and Rogers had played for me at Liberal last summer."

Cerv was referring to pitchers Cliff Butcher and Steve Rogers, who were the Golden Hurricane's top hurlers this year. In fact, Butcher was also Cerv's ace as he compiled a 12-0 record for Liberal.

Earlier this summer Cerv went to St. Paul to help in dedicating the Alexander Grover Cleveland Field but says the two Oldtimers Games will highlight the summer for him.

"I'll be in Pittsburgh on Aug. 7 for a reunion and Oldtimers Game of the 1960 World Series teams (Pirates and Yankees) and in Anaheim, Cal., Aug. 21 for an Angels-Yankees Oldtimers Game," Cerv said.

"But I may be a little confused at Anaheim because I was with the Angels in '61 but was traded back to the Yankees after the season. So I don't know which team I'll play for until I get out there."

Cuellar Collects 10th Straight As Orioles Slip Tigers, 3-2

By Associated Press

Baltimore's Mike Cuellar, bidding for his third straight 20-game season, won his 10th consecutive game and 12th of the year Sunday while the Chicago White Sox and Atlanta Braves each stretched their winning streaks to six games.

Cuellar, 12-1, scattered six hits against Detroit and received home run support from Boog Powell, who connected with one on, and Ellie Hendricks in beating the Tigers 3-2. Bill Freehan homered for Detroit.

The victory kept Baltimore 3 1/2 games ahead of Boston in the American League East.

The Red Sox provided some fourth of July fireworks with four home runs, two by Joe LaHood, and trimmed the New York Yankees 7-4.

The White Sox, meanwhile, celebrated Manager Chuck Tanner's 43rd birthday, edging Kansas City 1-0, on Carlos May's run-scoring single as Wilbur Wood outdueled Mike Hedlund.

Atlanta used Hank Aaron's 615th career homer and Phil

Niekro's nine-hit pitching to blank the New York Mets 2-0.

The loss left the Mets four games behind front-running Pittsburgh in the National League East, as the Pirate were beaten by the Chicago Cubs 9-7.

Elsewhere in the National League, Philadelphia pounded Montreal 10-6, St. Louis edged San Diego 3-2, Houston whipped Cincinnati 6-1 and Los Angeles crushed San Francisco 14-4.

In the only other American League afternoon game, Rookie Pete Broberg gained his first major league victory, hurling a six-hitter in Washington's 9-4 triumph over Cleveland.

The Cubs overcame Pittsburgh's 7-4 lead with a five-run flurry in the eighth. Bases-loaded walks to Brock Davis and Paul Popovich pulled Chicago within one run, before Don Kessinger singled home the tying and winning runs.

Two-runner doubles by Don Money and Denny Doyle and a two-run single by Larry Bowa highlighted a six-run Philadelphia eighth and enabled the Phils to overtake Montreal.

Dal Maxvill doubled in one run and doubled to set up the tie-breaking run for St. Louis.

Houston's Ken Fosch, 5-1, won his fourth straight game, stopping Cincinnati on six hits. The Astros' Joe Morgan had three hits, including a homer, in breaking an 0-for-16 slump.

In a twilight game, the Milwaukee Brewers blanked the Minnesota Twins 4-0, as Jim Slaton pitched a six-hitter for his second successive shutout. Dave May hit a two-run homer for the Brewers.

Oakland's amazing Vida Blue, backed by solo home runs by Mike Epstein and Joe Rudi, chalked up his 17th victory of the season as the A's shaded California 2-1 before a record Angels' crowd of 44,631.

Young Triple A Team Winning, Not Losing

. . . CONFIDENCE PLUS VARIETY CITIZENS STATE BANK HALLMARK

By DAVE WALLNER

Star Sports Writer

They're "lean, green and lucky." Translated, that means they're hungry, learning and winning when they shouldn't, a formula for success that may just pan out.

Bill Wakely, head man for the Citizens State Bank softball team, "likes it that way" having probably the youngest outfit in the Triple A ranks. And despite "a few bad moments" one of those a near disastrous, six-error inning in a comeback win, his youth movement disguised as a softball team is the hottest thing going, battling for first in a topsy-turvy race.

Confidence plus, the variety that "kind of makes you feel good," is Citizens' State's hallmark. "There isn't a team going," Wakely stressed, "that they don't think they can beat."

It doesn't take an adding machine to understand what he means when he jokes that "They're a king-sized Kiddie Corps, that's for sure."

With Joe Teale (23) at third, Steve McElroy (21) at short, Lyle Hiatt (20) at second and Fred Riva (25) at first, the infield might average 23 years, with some stretching. And the outfield is an ancient 25, give or take a few months.

But being "lean, green and lucky" still requires a few strings to tie the package together. The team's two old hands Ken Grosenbach and Bobby McCloskey, provide the necessary ingredient — experience — that has made Citizens a strong contender for the city crown.

Grosenbach, a greying 36-year-old pitcher who with Jim Bade, handles most of the mound chores, began hurling at Muny Field before joining The Spigot in 1969, his first year in Triple A. His first exposure to softball came while watching the game with his father during World War II, well before most of his teammates were even born. He should get his first crack at state tournament competition this year, although "a sore arm, a sore leg and a little bit of everything this year" have admittedly given him more second thoughts about calling it quits.

"Every year I keep saying I'm going to quit, and I never do," Grosenbach said after being pulled during a bad night and relieved by McCloskey.

Last year, a discouraging season with The Spigot, which disbanded and merged with Citizens, Grosenbach recalled that "We were miserable. All that we had to do was win one of our last four or five to make the state and we couldn't do it. But this bunch is the best group of guys I've ever pitched with."

McCloskey, a utilityman who takes his turn at anything from pitching playing second, roaming the outfield and keeping a scorebook, has been around even longer. The 38-year-old kicked off his career with Strauss Brothers in 1955, state champion that year, and has been at it ever since.

"I think our young kids work and learn a lot . . . and in a few years, they'll hit anything," McCloskey said.

Regardless of the mounting years, sore arms and those second thoughts, you get the impression that "in a few years," they'll be around, still holding the movement together.

Action Getter Has 1st 2, Seeks Brandeis Today

. . . TRIPSPVILLE TOP WEIGHTED AT AK-SAR-BEN

By MARK GORDON

Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Action Getter strives to make Ak-Sar-Ben racing history in today's 24th running of the $40,000-added George Brandeis Memorial Handicap.

The 4-year-old chestnut colt aims to outscamper eight other thoroughbreds in the mile and 1/16th chase and thereby become the first horse to win Ak's big three races — The Cornhusker Handicap, Omaha Gold Cup and the Brandeis.

Owned by E. V. Benjamin III and J. M. Jones Jr., Action Getter won the Gold Cup last year and grabbed the the Cornhusker just 16 days ago.

Although Action Getter won the Cornhusker by 2 1/2 lengths over Tripsville, racing secretary Harry Krovitz has assigned top weight of 122 pounds to Tripsville, winner of this year's Ak King's Handicap and Cornhusker Prep.

The Tom Chaffee-owned 5-year-old horse has won four of nine starts with three seconds and one third to account for $46,618 — $6,186 more than Action Getter has pocketed for his New Orleans owners.

In the Cornhusker, as pacesetting Fritter began to tire rounding the turn for home, Jerry Engle, Fritter's jockey grabbed at Tripsville's saddle towel, as the Chaffee-owned horse was moving to a 1 1/2-length lead entering the stretch.

That action, not only cost Engle a $1,500 fine and a 30-day suspension by the Nebraska State Racing Commission, it may have also hurt Tripsville's chances to win the Cornhusker.

While Action Getter will carry 120 pounds including regular Ak-Sar-Ben rider Ken Jones, Tripsville will also lug his familiar rider Fred Ecofey.

But C. E. and G. M. Nicholas have entered a pair of scooters who are expected to seriously challenge the top-weighted duo on today's 48th and final day of racing at Ak-Sar-Ben.

Might, winner of three of six starts with one third, and Perpetual, victor in one of three 1971 jaunts, will be coupled for wagering purposes in hopes of providing the Nicholas clan the second of Ak's big three races. Might won the 1969 Gold Cup.

A 5-year-old brown horse, Might has been assigned third top-weight of 116 pounds and will be ridden by usual jockey Wendell Leeling. Perpetual, a 4-year-old brown colt, will carry 110 pounds and veteran rider Eddie Burns.

An Eastern and Western invader hope to snap the "homie" jinx that seems to plague all nonresidents on their first trip to the Omaha plant.

Salvo, coming here from Detroit, has triumphed in two of five starts this year in earning $21,995, while Domineering comes here from Hollywood Park in California with two triumphs in 10 starts for $17,290 — the last four starts on the turf course.

Carrying the M. H. Van Berg colors will be Purchaser, winner of $16,655 on one win and five thirds in ten 1971 starts. The 4-year-old black colt will carry 110 pounds.

Prince Hemp, who finished third in the Cornhusker — 3 1/2 lengths back of Action Getter seeks his second victory this year with 112 pounds and jockey Don Lewis.

Rounding out the field will be You Know What, who has triumphed in five of nine appearances this year for $19,111. The 4-year-old gelding will be guided by Ak's top jockey, J. L. Lively.

The Mexican-American, who two weeks ago captured the U.S. Open title, came from two strokes off the pace in the final round with a five-under-par 67 and tied Wall at 275.

Wall, at 47 the oldest man in the field here, had a final-round 69 and blew a chance to score his first victory in five years when he missed from eight feet on the 72nd hole — a putt that would have won it outright for him.

The $30,000 first prize pushed Trevino's leading money winning total for the year to $195,869 and put him within close range of Billy Casper's $205,000 record single-season total.

Wall, in his 23rd year on the pro tour, collected $17,100 for second place — giving him almost $40,000 for the year.

Trevino, now winner of four titles this season and nine in his brief five-year professional career, now has won two national titles in the last three weeks and has had aim on next week's British Open at Southport, England, starting Wednesday.

Charles Cannon of Iowa collected a perfect 100x100 to walk away with Class A in the 16-yard singles while Jim Beck of Omaha won the doubles with a 47x50 and Class A high overall with a 237x250.

American League President Joe Cronin also denied the report. Reached at his Cape Cod summer home, Cronin said: "That's not right. No vote has never been a request made for permission to move."

Short also said he had never received permission to move.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn was not available for comment.

"Short's continuing interest in a new rental deal for Kennedy Stadium indicates he is still Washington-minded and would, under the proper terms, break off his romance with Dallas.

Povich said, "In that case, his flirtation with Texas money and his poverty plea to the league would come under the head of tactics, a game with which Short is familiar."

Howard's amazing Vida Blue, backed by solo home runs by Mike Epstein and Joe Rudi, chalked up his 17th victory of the season as the A's shaded California 2-1 before a record Angels' crowd of 44,631.

Young American Team Has Olympic Strength

. . . MATZDORF SETS HIGH JUMP MARK

Berkeley, Calif. (AP) — A world record breaking high jump, an American record for 5,000 meters, plus some other outstanding performances indicate the United States will have youthful strength for the Olympics next year.

Pat Matzdorf, 21, from the University of Wisconsin, high jumped 7 feet, 6 1/4 inches in the United States-Russia meet Saturday, a half inch above the world mark Soviet jumper Valery Brumel set in 1963.

Then Steve Prefontaine, 20, of Oregon won the 5,000 meters in 13 minutes, 30.4 seconds to beat the 13:32.2 by the veteran George Young earlier this year.

"This team was a great one," said Dave Maggard, the University of California coach who headed the staff for the U.S. men's team which beat the Russians 126-110.

"It was the youngest team we've ever had and it's encouraging to see a new group of young people coming to the top."

"While we all like to watch and rely on the veteran stars, we have to watch our young athletes."

"I think the United States will be very proud of itself in Munich the site of the 1972 Olympics."

Maggard pointed to new strength in the 5,000 meters and the 3,000-meter steeplechase where the United States has generally been weak.

In addition to Prefontaine's 13:30.4 in the 5,000, the United States took second as Steve Stagberg from Georgetown, D.C. University ran a 13:35.6, and his time bettered the previous best for the nine previous USA-USSR meets.

In the steeplechase, despite running and winning in the NCAA and AAU meets the previous two weeks, Sid Slink from Bowling Green ran a good race to finish second in 8:41 behind Romualdaus Bile of the

U.S. Had 'Direct Role In Breakdown Of Geneva Settlement'

The New York Times

New York — The secret Pentagon study of the Vietnam war found that the Eisenhower administration's National Security Council decided, a few days after the Geneva agreement on Vietnam in 1954, that the agreement was a "disaster," the New York Times said Sunday.

The council subsequently approved actions to prevent further Communist expansion in Vietnam and these decisions, the Pentagon study concludes, meant that the United States had "a direct role in the ultimate breakdown of the Geneva settlement."

That judgment, says the New York Times in its ninth article based on the mammoth Pentagon study, contradicts the repeated assertion of several American administrations that North Vietnam alone was to blame for the undermining of the Geneva accords.

U.S. Didn't Sign

Under the Geneva settlement,

which ended the French Indochina War, Vietnam was to be temporarily divided into two zones pending reunification through elections scheduled for 1956. The introduction of foreign troops or bases and the use of Vietnamese territory for military purposes were forbidden. The United States did not join with the nations that endorsed the accords, but issued a declaration taking note of their provisions and promising not to disturb them.

The Geneva agreement was concluded on July 21, 1954. Less than two weeks later, on Aug. 3, the Pentagon study says, the National Security Council ordered an urgent program of economic and military aid to the new South Vietnamese government of Premier Ngo Dinh Diem.

The study describes in detail how the Eisenhower administration sent a team of agents to carry out clandestine warfare against North Vietnam from almost the minute the Geneva conference closed.

The Pentagon study, commissioned by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara in 1967 to determine how the U.S. became involved so deeply in Vietnam, devotes nine lengthy sections to the 1940s and '50s.

At key points during these years, the Pentagon study says, the Truman and Eisenhower administrations made far-reaching decisions on Vietnam policy that the public knew little about or misunderstood. And by the time John F. Kennedy became president in 1961, the writers recount, the American government already felt itself heavily committed to the defense of South Vietnam.

Of the early years in this period, the study says that, at the end of World War II, President Roosevelt never made up his mind whether to support the French desire to reclaim their Indochina colonies from the Japanese.

In 1948 and '49, as concern about the Soviet Union's expansion in Eastern Europe grew, Washington became increasingly anxious about Ho's communist affiliation. Nevertheless, the Pentagon study discloses that a survey by the State Department's Office of Intelligence and Research, in the fall of 1948, concluded that it could find no evidence that Ho took orders from Moscow.

Ambivalence Ends

When China fell to Mao Tse-Tung's armies a year later, however, Washington's ambivalence ended.

At this point, in the winter of 1949-50, the U.S. made what the study describes as a watershed decision affecting American policy in Vietnam for the next two decades, when the Truman administration moved to support Emperor Bao Dai and provide military aid to the French against the Communist-led Viet Minh.

It was at this time that the "domino theory" was born.

"It is important to U.S.

be a reasonably strong, stable government in control."

Under the provisions of the Geneva accords, the two zones of Vietnam were to begin consultations in July 1955 on reunification elections scheduled for the following year.

But Diem refused to talk with the Communists, and in July 1956 refused to hold the elections, asserting that his government had not signed the Geneva accords and therefore was not bound by them.

U.S. Also Opposed

The U.S. also had opposed the elections at that time, fearing a Communist victory, and wanted to postpone them.

"Without U.S. support," the study says, "Diem almost certainly could not have consolidated his hold on the South during 1955 and 1956."

"Without the threat of U.S. intervention, South Vietnam could not have refused to even discuss the elections called for in 1956 under the Geneva settlement without being immediately overrun by the Viet Minh armies."

"Without U.S. aid in the years following, the Diem regime certainly, and an independent South Vietnam almost as certainly, could not have survived . . ."

In brief, the study concludes, "South Vietnam was essentially the creation of the United States."

U.S. Had 'Direct Role In Breakdown Of Geneva Settlement'

The New York Times

New York — The secret Pentagon study of the Vietnam war found that the Eisenhower administration's National Security Council decided, a few days after the Geneva agreement on Vietnam in 1954, that the agreement was a "disaster," the New York Times said Sunday.

The council subsequently approved actions to prevent further Communist expansion in Vietnam and these decisions, the Pentagon study concludes, meant that the United States had "a direct role in the ultimate breakdown of the Geneva settlement."

That judgment, says the New York Times in its ninth article based on the mammoth Pentagon study, contradicts the repeated assertion of several American administrations that North Vietnam alone was to blame for the undermining of the Geneva accords.

U.S. Didn't Sign
Under the Geneva settlement,

which ended the French Indochina War, Vietnam was to be temporarily divided into two zones pending reunification through elections scheduled for 1956. The introduction of foreign troops or bases and the use of Vietnamese territory for military purposes were forbidden. The United States did not join with the nations that endorsed the accords, but issued a declaration taking note of their provisions and promising not to disturb them.

The Geneva agreement was concluded on July 21, 1954. Less than two weeks later, on Aug. 3, the Pentagon study says, the National Security Council ordered an urgent program of economic and military aid to the new South Vietnamese government of Premier Ngo Dinh Diem.

The study describes in detail how the Eisenhower administration sent a team of agents to carry out clandestine warfare against North Vietnam from almost the minute the Geneva conference closed.

The Pentagon study, commissioned by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara in 1967 to determine how the U.S. became involved so deeply in Vietnam, devotes nine lengthy sections to the 1940s and '50s.

At key points during these years, the Pentagon study says, the Truman and Eisenhower administrations made far-reaching decisions on Vietnam policy that the public knew little about or misunderstood. security interests," the study quotes the National Security Council as saying in February 1950, "that all practicable measures be taken to prevent further communist expansion in Southeast Asia. Indochina is a key area and is under immediate threat."

In January 1954, the Pentagon study relates, a council paper approved by President Eisenhower further said that the "loss of any single country" in Southeast Asia would ultimately lead to the loss of all Southeast Asia, then India and Japan, and finally "endanger the stability and security of Europe."

Never Questioned
Speaking of the Eisenhower years, the Pentagon study comments: "The domino theory and the assumptions behind it were never questioned."

The major decision for American involvement in Vietnam, according to the Pentagon study, was made Aug. 20, 1954, when President Eisenhower approved a National Security Council paper recommending aid to Vietnam and working with Premier Diem despite intelligence warnings that it was unlikely that a strong government would be established in South Vietnam and a memorandum from the Joint Chiefs of Staff that "it is absolutely essential that there be a reasonably strong, stable government in control."

Under the provisions of the Geneva accords, the two zones of Vietnam were to begin consultations in July 1955 on reunification elections scheduled for the following year.

But Diem refused to talk with the Communists, and in July 1956 refused to hold the elections, asserting that his government had not signed the Geneva accords and therefore was not bound by them.

U.S. Also Opposed

The U.S. also had opposed the elections at that time, fearing a Communist victory, and wanted to postpone them.

"Without U.S. support," the study says, "Diem almost certainly could not have consolidated his hold on the South during 1955 and 1956."

"Without the threat of U.S. intervention, South Vietnam could not have refused to even discuss the elections called for in 1956 under the Geneva settlement without being immediately overrun by the Viet Minh armies."

"Without U.S. aid in the years following, the Diem regime certainly, and an independent South Vietnam almost as certainly, could not have survived"

In brief, the study concludes, "South Vietnam was essentially the creation of the United States."

Opposing Attorneys Get Ready For Possible CBS Contempt Fight

Washington (P) — In off-camera offices opposing attorneys are honing legal weapons for an unprecedent court duel that could be precipitated if the House holds CBS in contempt of Congress. The First Amendment and committee in preparations for a recent court rulings are sources potential court battle over "The Selling of the Pentagon," a televised documentary which attacked public relations spending.

The House is expected to be asked to vote late next week on the committee's 25-13 recommendation that CBS and its president, Frank Stanton, be cited for contempt because they refused to let Congress inspect subpoenaed material used in making the program.

Possible Prosecution

Approval of a citation would send the case to the Justice Department for prosecution.

"It cannot be seriously argued that journalists will be inhibited in seeking out information and interviews by the knowledge that subsequent electronic rearrangement of the material they gather might be subject to public scrutiny," say committee lawyers.

"Legislation that is designed to deter 'distortions' or to control 'editing practices' in broadcast news reports, by imposing sanctions for or regulations upon comment about public events that falls short of malicious libel, could not withstand constitutional scrutiny," they add.

The comments are in detailed outlines of the basic legal positions on which CBS and the committee stood fast during last month's showdown that produced the contempt recommendation.

'Facts' Needed

Committee Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., says, "What we're trying to do is to get the facts so we can make legislation . . . We must have those outtakes in order to determine" whether CBS televised a misleading program.

Committee lawyers insist Staggers is within his rights to demand the information sought through subpoena for a valid legislative purpose. It is "difficult to see on what basis such a disclosure requirement, which obviously adds to information placed in the hands of the public, could be held offensive to the First Amendment," they add.

In addition, committee attorneys say transpositions of questions and answers on a filmed interview "go far beyond the sanctity of communication protected by the First Amendment."

"For what is being done in such instances is not slanting or selective quotation, it is nothing less than a deceptive manipulation of the public's senses of sight and hearing."

However, CBS lawyers contend Congress is trying to "examine the editing decisions involved in selecting materials for the final broadcast," an attempt to have legislative investigators judge such actions "according to a governmental standard of journalistic truth."

"The demand that CBS supply unedited material so that the government can review its editing judgments would have an unconstitutionally chilling effect upon the First Amendment rights of CBS and all other broadcast journalists, and ultimately upon the public's right to see and hear vigorous and critical comment on public affairs," they add.

Committee lawyers argue: "Broadcast journalism, precisely because it enjoys the benefits of a limitation of access by others, is not identical to print journalism. Public access to television is severely constrained by law."

They argue that the legal status of a broadcaster cannot be equated to that of a newspaper publisher.

Washington (AP) — In off-camera offices opposing attorneys are honing legal weapons for an unprecedent court duel that could be precipitated if the House holds CBS in contempt of Congress. The First Amendment and recent court rulings are sources

Committee Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., says, "What we're trying to do is to get the facts so we can make legislation . . . We must have those outtakes in order to determine whether CBS is violating a misleading program.

Committee lawyers insist Staggers is within his rights to demand the information sought through subpoena for a valid legislative purpose.

Committee lawyers argue: "Broadcast journalism, precisely because it enjoys the benefits of a limitation of access by others, is not identical to print journalism. Public access to television is severely constrained by law."

They argue that the legal status of a broadcaster cannot be equated to that of a newspaper publisher.

Opening Of Suez Said Linked To Israeli Troop Withdrawal

By The Associated Press
Egypt and the Soviet Union declared Sunday night that reopening of the Suez Canal must be part of a general agreement on total withdrawal of Israeli troops from occupied Arab territory.

A joint communique issued in Moscow also accused Israel of an "aggressive expansionist course" that has been the "main cause of tensions and the absence of peace in the Middle East."

In Tel Aviv, the newspaper Haaretz said Joseph Sisco, U.S. assistant secretary of state, probably would visit Israel in mid-July with new proposals for a partial Israeli-Egyptian settlement. A Foreign Ministry spokesman called such a visit "possible," but claimed the newspaper report was speculative.

munique was issued at the end of a five-day visit to Moscow by Mahmoud Riad, Egypt's foreign minister. Portions were released by the official Soviet news agency Tass.

Riad left Moscow Sunday for Prague on the second leg of a trip to brief East European leaders on the latest Mideast developments.

The brief excerpts of the communique repeated the Soviet-Egyptian contention that "without the political, economic and military aid and support by the United States, the Israeli government would not have been able to pursue its aggressive policy and to sabotage all attempts . . . for a peaceful settlement."

Suggested By U.S.

The communique stated, Tass said, that "the problem of opening the Suez Canal for international shipping cannot be solved in isolation from other problems of the settlement and should be in context with an agreement on the withdrawal of all Israeli troops" to frontiers existing before the June 1967 war.

Haaretz said Sisco's visit was officially suggested by the United States. It said the timing was inconvenient for Israel because of the proposals Sisco is expected to bring, but did not elaborate on those proposals.

Israel and the United States are known to disagree on terms for a partial settlement involving reactivation of the Suez Canal and an Israeli pullback from its east bank.

Israeli officials are still simulating over the recent so-called private initiative of Donald Bergus, senior U.S. diplomat in Cairo, who reportedly proposed to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat that Israel should withdraw from half the Sinai Peninsula.

Haaretz said Sisco's visit to Israel was planned to coincide with the return to Cairo of Bergus and Michael Stern, State Department Egyptian specialist, with a report on Washington's latest Mideast position.

Thunderstorms With High Winds Move Over State

By The Associated Press

Scattered thunderstorms, some accompanied by high winds, moved across west and central Nebraska Sunday.

A trailer set up as a pro shop at the new Chadron golf course was destroyed by winds up to 92 miles an hour. High winds also took the top off a hanger at the Chadron airport and caused some minor damage to aircraft inside.

The winds were accompanied by thunderstorms and half-inch size hail.

The weather pattern was a continuation of storms that hit Saturday night and caused an estimated $56,000 in damage, mostly to telephone and power lines. At Ainsworth fences and hay stacks were down and four head of cattle were known dead with several others missing.

City Manager B. Cowles Mallory ordered producer George Wein to stop Saturday night's performance after waves of young people broke through two security fences and crashed the performance.

Mallory also canceled the concert scheduled for Sunday and Monday.

Wein said the Newport festival would be held next year, but he was not optimistic that it would be here.

Thousands of young people began gathering Friday on two hills overlooking Festival Field, pitching tents and laying down bedrolls in preparation for the holiday weekend.

Estimates of the crowd on the hills ranged as high as 20,000, with those involved in the actual gate-crashing numbering up to 1,500. There also were approximately 20,000 persons inside the amphitheater Saturday night.

As the evening wore on, the people on the hill grew restless. Some passed the time by tossing beer or wine bottles and rocks at the few police patrolling the area. Then they surged along the chain-link fence surrounding the field and began urging each other on.

The fence was finally yanked free from the bottom and youngsters began scrambling under. They easily tore down a 20-foot section and entered the festival area.

When the break came, John West, head of security inside the field, said most of the 180 police were using tear gas to disperse the crowd at another section of the fence that also had been ripped down.

One youth inside urged his friends: "Come on in folks, the festival's free."

When singer Dionne Warwick finished her set, Wein went on stage and told the audience that the remainder of the concert had been canceled. As the crowd began to exit, the invaders descended upon the stage, smashing wooden chairs as they proceeded.

Several hundred remained on the stage about an hour and a half, chanting and stomping, before they began to disperse.

Most returned to the hill overlooking the field until police moved them out Sunday morning.

Gas Rise Protested

Manila (UPI) — Three thousand youths marched to Manila's Plaza Miranda in a protest demonstration against a 10% increase in the price of gasoline in the Philippines. The youths chanted slogans criticizing President Ferdinand E. Marcos. Some carried banners that said "fry Marcos in oil."

U.S. Jewish Defense League Plans Israeli Headquarters

Tel Aviv, Israel (AP) — The Jewish Defense League announced plans Sunday to set up international headquarters in Israel, but pledged its activities here would be "strictly non-violent."

Neil Rothenberg of New York told a news conference his organization would try to aid what he called "under-privileged Jews" in Israel.

Premier Golda Meir has expressed blunt dislike for the JDL's militant, often violent tactics but the 20-year-old spokesman emphasized Israel would not witness any violence by the league.

Many Events Featured At Seward Celebration

By SAM THORSON

Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Seward — Independence Day was observed in high style here Sunday with a fire department water fight, a pie-eating contest, a stage show, a 14-unit parade and a $1,200 fireworks display.

Honored guests included Congressman Charles Thone, Nebraska National Guard Adjutant General Lyle Welch, and the official "Tourist Family," Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ziegler of Egypt, Pa., and their daughters, Rose and Tammy.

Ziegler, an ironworker and volunteer fireman, was "captured" with his family as they passed through town Sunday morning and "detained" for an appearance in the parade, which began at Concordia College and ended at the city park.

Thone spoke briefly at a reception held for honoree Gen. Welch, a Milford native who was honored as the "Nebraskan's Friend" for his service to the state and Seward County.

Firemen played an important part in the day's celebrations. The water fight tested the prowess, stamina and water pressure of fire crews from all over the county. Opposing crews fought to push an empty oil barrel, stung from a wire, across their opponents' goal.

The Staplehurst crew came up the winner, defeating Ulysses in the finals, two "goals" to one.

a sharp enough eye to hit the target with a ball.

Names as Miss Independence and Mrs. Firecracker were Diane Sanders, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Davenport, and Kevin Propst, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Propst. Diane and Kevin each earned an appearance in the parade with a prize-winning essay on "Why I Like to Live in Seward."

Also appearing in the parade were a dozen beauty queens, including a well-rounded representation from the state's agricultural products: the Nebraska Wheat Queen, Dairy Princess, Angus Queen and Pork Queen.

Winners of the cleanup contest and Outstanding Citizen contest were to be named at a free grandstand show scheduled for 7 p.m. The cleanup winner was to be selected from 140 "blockheads," or block cleanup leaders.

The grandstand show was to feature fireworks, the Gloria Goodflower Variety Hour (presented by community volunteers and statirizing the Ted Mack Amateur Hour), and a sky show featuring stunt airplanes.

A group of 15 committee heads began organizing the celebration as far back as November, according to chairman Don Korterman, 20, a junior at Kearney State Teachers' College. "This is a unique event," he said. "It's a joint youth-adult project. The average age of the committee heads is 18, and half are under 20."

Ky Implies Thieu Regime Should Be Deposed

Saigon (P) — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, in a Fourth of July message to U.S. officials here, made a veiled suggestion that President Nguyen Van Thieu's regime should be deposed.

Ky did not make clear whether he meant Thieu should be replaced through the Oct. 3 presidential election, but informants said the vice president was not advocating a violent overthrow of the Thieu government.

"A government must be of the people, by the people, for the people," Ky wrote, quoting from the preamble to the South Vietnamese constitution. "It is a right and a duty to overthrow a regime which is against the people."

While Ky's statement did not mention Thieu by name, the implication was there that the vice president — an announced candidate for president in this October's election — was referring to the current regime. The U.S. Embassy said it had heard about Ky's message but claimed that because of the Fourth of July holiday it had not seen it.

Other informants reported the contents of the message.

Some of these sources said the message was sent to U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, but others said it went directly to Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's adviser now in Saigon.

It seemed likely informants said, that Ky was using Independence Day to call attention to his own repeated charges that the Thieu government is corrupt and undemocratic.

The message may also have been intended to cause the Nixon administration to have second thoughts about supporting Thieu in the Oct. 3 election and to boost Ky's own candidacy, they added.

Petrov said: "Such ships Soyuz already have made repeated space voyages and have safely returned cosmonauts to earth. An accident can never be ruled out, however, when such complex machinery is being tested and mastered."

Great Success

Despite the Salute mission's unhappy end, Petrov wrote, the crew "implemented its broad program in full measure and with great success."

"The checking out of the construction and systems, equipment and instrumentation of the new Salute-Soyuz space complex confirmed the correctness of the principles on which it was based," Petrov said.

Although there has still been no official explanation of what killed the Salute crew, unofficial sources said the men died instantly of an explosion of blood to the brain."

The rapid rise in blood pressure, they added, was caused by sudden decompression in the cosmonauts' cabin as their oxygen supply was sucked into space from a small leak in the cabin wall.

Bomb Wrecks British Office In Cork, Ireland

Cork, Ireland (P) — A terrorist bomb wrecked a British pensions office and damaged two neighboring offices in the Irish republic's second city Sunday.

No casualties were reported. Police blamed the bombing to the outlawed Irish Republican Army, which is sworn to drive out all British influence from Ireland.

The pensions office is run here by the British government to cater to retired Britons and former servicemen living in Ireland.

The blast damaged neighboring offices of the Irish Life Assurance Co. and the Irish government's social welfare department.

Many Events Featured At Seward Celebration

By SAM THORSON

Outstate Nebraska Bureau
Seward — Independence Day was observed in high style here Sunday with a fire department water fight, a pie-eating contest, a stage show, a 14-unit parade and a $1,200 fireworks display.

Honored guests included Congressman Charles Thone, Nebraska National Guard Adjutant General Lyle Welch, and the official "Tourist Family," Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ziegler of Egypt, Pa., and their daughters, Rose and Tammie.

Ziegler, an ironworker and volunteer fireman, was "captured" with his family as they passed through town Sunday morning and "detained" for an appearance in the parade, which began at Concordia College and ended at the city park.

Thone spoke briefly at a reception held for honoree Gen. Welch, a Milford native who was honored as the "Nebraskan's Friend" for his service to the state and Seward County.

Firemen played an important part in the day's celebrations. The water fight tested the prowess, stamina and water pressure of fire crews from all over the county. Opposing crews fought to push an empty oil barrel, stung from a wire, across their opponents' goal.

The Staplehurst crew came up the winner, defeating Ulysses in the finals, two "goals" to one.

a sharp enough eye to hit the target with a ball.

Names as Miss Independence and Mrs. Firecracker were Diane Sanders, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Davenport, and Kevin Propst, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Propst. Diane and Kevin each earned an appearance in the parade with a prize-winning essay on "Why I Like to Live in Seward."

Also appearing in the parade were a dozen beauty queens, including a well-rounded representation from the state's agricultural products: the Nebraska Wheat Queen, Dairy Princess, Angus Queen and Pork Queen.

Winners of the cleanup contest and Outstanding Citizen contest were to be named at a free grandstand show scheduled for 7 p.m. The cleanup winner was to be selected from 140 "blockheads," or block cleanup leaders.

The grandstand show was to feature fireworks, the Gloria Goodflower Variety Hour (presented by community volunteers and statizing the Ted Mack Amateur Hour), and a sky show featuring stunt airplanes.

A group of 15 committee heads began organizing the celebration as far back as November, according to chairman Don Kotterman, 20, a junior at Kearney State Teachers' College. "This is a unique event," he said. "It's a joint youth-adult project. The average age of the committee heads is 18, and half are under 20."

Ky Implies Thieu Regime Should Be Deposed

Saigon (AP) — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, in a Fourth of July message to U.S. officials here, made a veiled suggestion that President Nguyen Van Thieu's regime should be deposed.

Ky did not make clear whether he meant Thieu should be replaced through the Oct. 3 presidential election, but informants said the vice president was not advocating a violent overthrow of the Thieu government.

"A government must be of the people, by the people, for the people," Ky wrote, quoting from the preamble to the South Vietnamese constitution. "It is a right and a duty to overthrow a regime which is against the people."

While Ky's statement did not mention Thieu by name, the implication was there that the vice president — an announced candidate for president in this October's election — was referring to the current regime.

The U.S. Embassy said it had heard about Ky's message but claimed that because of the Fourth of July holiday it had not seen it.

Other informants reported the contents of the message.

Some of these sources said the message was sent to U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, but others said it went directly to Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's adviser now in Saigon.

It seemed likely informants said, that Ky was using Independence Day to call attention to his own repeated charges that the Thieu government is corrupt and undemocratic.

The message may also have been intended to cause the Nixon administration to have second thoughts about supporting Thieu in the Oct. 3 election and to boost Ky's own candidacy, they added.

Russians To Continue Salute Orbital Project

Moscow (AP) — A top Soviet space scientist said Sunday that more Salute orbital stations will be built and put into broad use in the 1970s despite the tragic death of Salute's first crew last week.

Boris N. Petrov, whose work on automatic flight systems was instrumental in establishing Salute as the world's first manned space station, made the prediction in an article in Pravda, the official Communist party newspaper.

"One can say with confidence that the '70s will become an epoch in the development and broad use of long-term manned orbital stations with interchangeable crews," Petrov said.

Regular Vigil

This will make possible, he added, "the switch from occasional experiments in space to a regular vigil by scientists and experts in space laboratories."

Petrov offered no explanation for the death of the three-man Salute crew last Wednesday.

Bomb Wrecks British Office In Cork, Ireland

Cork, Ireland (AP) — A terrorist bomb wrecked a British pensions office and damaged two neighboring offices in the Irish republic's second city Sunday.

No casualties were reported. Police blamed the bombing on the outlawed Irish Republican Army, which is sworn to drive out all British influence from Ireland.

The pensions office is run here by the British government to cater to retired Britons and former servicemen living in Ireland.

The blast damaged neighboring offices of the Irish Life Assurance Co. and the Irish government's social welfare department.

with great success."

"The checking out of the construction and systems, equipment and instrumentation of the new Salute-Soyuz space complex confirmed the correctness of the principles on which it was based," Petrov said.

Although there has still been no official explanation of what killed the Salute crew, unofficial sources said the men died instantly of "an explosion of blood to the brain."

The rapid rise in blood pressure, they added, was caused by sudden decompression in the cosmonauts' cabin as their oxygen supply was sucked into space from a small leak in the cabin wall.
